Plan would retool town center

Rooftop restaurant, parking garage, more for Post Office Avenue?

By Neil Fater

A local developer wants to deliver a new package to Post Office Avenue that would include an open-air Italian restaurant on the roof of the historic Musgrove Building.

The plan for the visible Andover-center location also involves building a two-level parking garage at the end of the private Post Office Avenue and altering the flow of traffic so that cars would travel from Elm Street to Main Street on Post Office Avenue. The paved street would be turned into a brick or cobblestoned way, with an archway where the avenue meets Main Street. A glass-enclosed staircase would replace the fire escape on the Musgrove Building.

The proposal – which has not been thoroughly reviewed yet by town departments – is the product of Anthony DiNapoli. Last year, DiNapoli paid more than $5 million for the Musgrove Building at 2 Elm Square, the Post Office Avenue building that houses shops such as My Brother's Place, and the parking lot at the end of the tiny street just off Main Street in the center of town.

Plan highlights

- Open-air Italian restaurant atop Musgrove Building
- Traffic flowing from Elm to Main Street on Post Office Avenue
- Ramped, two-level garage
- Archway where Main Street meets Post Office Avenue
- Glass-enclosed stairway, not fire escape, on Musgrove Building
- Cobblestones or bricks on road

TOWN TALK

Hindu center eyes June

The Chinmaya Mission's Hindu cultural center on North Main Street is expected to finish construction in June.

When it opens, there will be a celebration that all of Andover is welcomed to, said Dwarka Dwarakanath, Andover resident and president of the Chinmaya Mission of Boston. The eye-catching, copper-roofed structure has quickly taken shape over the winter next to the Interstate 495 on-ramp.

An idol of Indian deity Hanuman that will rest in the center.

"This is a dream come true," said Dwarakanath, looking at the red-bricked, white-columned center. "Every morning and every night and every waking moment I'll be thinking of when the center is ready to go," he said.

The Lowell General Hospital doctor has helped to raise $1.7 million for the project. This weekend's violin concert (see story in Arts) is expected to sell out, with tickets ranging from $15 to $100.

Lois common denominator

Orchard Crossing resident Lois Karfunkel has met fewer than a half dozen other Loises in her lifetime. But that will change this Tuesday when she walks into a room full of them.

Karfunkel plans to attend her first meeting of the Lois Club in Reading, a club open only to people named Lois. "I found the idea of a club intriguing because I've never met many Loises in my life," she said. "I can't remember anyone in my classes named Lois."

Karfunkel says she feels a bond when meets people with her first name, similar to the feeling some people get when they see someone else driving the same, unusual car that they do.

"It's amazing. I know when I go shopping and there's a saleswoman named Lois, there's an immediate connection somehow," she said, before chuckling. "You feel a certain bond. You've all sort of suffered with this name."

The group will meet April 29, and every fifth Tuesday of a month, at 7 p.m. at the Old South United Methodist Church, Salem Street, Reading.

— Neil Fater

June 20: No more pencils...

Hailing good weather and no snow days Superintendent Claudia Bach announced June 20 as the official last day of school. That date is subject to change only if school must close for a day or more before then. Andover High School students will graduate Monday, June 2 regardless of weather. Graduation will be held at Tsongas Arena.

TOWN MEETING PREVIEW

Eileen Standerwick, a member of Protect Andover Zoning, wants to stop a 115-unit development from coming to her neighborhood. She is one of several people with an interest in what type of developments will be allowed in Andover, an issue at the center of several Town Meeting articles this year.

One issue: What types of homes for Andover?

At the annual Town Meeting next week, all registered voters will have a chance to decide exactly how they want their tax money spent in the coming year – and how much of it will be spent.

But perhaps the most debated issues will involve what types of homes Andover wants. Several articles deal with housing issues such as affordable housing, accessory dwelling units, historic districts and a sewer agreement that will allow a large housing project to be built on River Road. Town Meeting begins next Monday and Tuesday, April 28 and 29 at 7 p.m. at the Andover High School Field House.

Given the tough economy, Andover's budget has been getting more attention than usual.

Town Meeting
Pages 7-9

But all major town boards will recommend the same budget figure at Town Meeting, just less than $108 million.

Residents will also vote on whether to approve $4.48 million to improve the town's water treatment plant. The improvements will not increase the capacity of the plant, though town plans show the town expects to ask for another $4.7 million next year for another project at the treatment plant.

Bush I at Phillips Saturday

School's 225th year

By Andrea Gregory

Former President George H.W. Bush is scheduled to visit his old Andover stomping ground at Phillips Academy this weekend.

Saturday is set to be a proud day for those affiliated with Phillips Academy, the esteemed private school that will be celebrating 225 years of education. Once a student there himself, Bush isn't planning on missing this party.

"There aren't a lot of institutions that are 225 years old," says Sharon Britton, director of communications at Phillips.

Britton says Phillips Academy will also pay tribute to the 175th anniversary of Abbot Academy, its school for girls. The two schools merged in 1973. Aside from the anniversary celebration, Britton says the school will also be toasting the completion of a six-year fundraising campaign that Bush helped kick off.

While many will welcome the appearance of Bush, a small group of faculty are planning to protest Saturday, noting Bush's involvement in the first Gulf War

Public housing

Residents nervous about sudden 32% rise in rent

By Ben Hellman

A proposed $5 million cut to state public housing will mean rent increases for Andover Housing Authority residents, with some residents wondering how they will afford even their subsidized rent.

The 32 to 36 percent increases in rent caused by the state cuts will translate to an increase of between $8 and $180 a month and will have the biggest impact on the seniors, said Housing Authority Director Christine Metzemaekers.

Ruben Parker, a senior citizen and housing resident, said the impending cuts and increases will hurt. "It's huge. We got people here 98 years of age. Crutches, wheelchairs, most of them live off Social Security. With medication going up, it's pretty rough," he said.

Governor Mitt Romney has proposed the $5 million cut, and the Massachusetts

Director of Public Housing Christine Metzemaekers talks with Conrad Cutrona and Jeannie Cook, of the tenants council.

Department of Housing and Community Development (DHCD) has issued these decisions and more:

- a $50 minimum rent per bedroom with no exception. There is currently no minimum, which allows the housing authority to lower rent requirements for residents who are out of work. "If a job is lost, where are you supposed to get that?" said Metzemaekers.

- an elimination of the 20-hour per week income-tax exclusion for seniors. The current 20-hour income-tax exclusion allows seniors to work 20 hours per week without having their income taxed.

- a $25 late fee for rent paid more than 30 days after it is due.

Conrad Cutrona, senior tenant council vice-president, said the increase could raise his rent $56. Considering he pays $1,200 for his medication each month, he says it will be difficult to come up with the extra money. With cuts to Prescription Advantage and Mass Health, "the elderly, poor and disabled are being hit from all directions," Metzemaekers said.

Legislators' program on issues for disabled

The Northeast Independent Living Program will host its annual legislative forum 9:30 a.m. to noon on Friday, April 25, at the Massachusetts School of Law 500 Federal St., Andover.

The breakfast will address some of the critical issues confronting people with disabilities and is an opportunity to talk about "creative ways to support folks in the community, and to make our voices heard," say organizers. Andover constituents also can meet with their legislators and discuss issues affecting people with disabilities and their families.

For more information, contact Jim Lyons at Northeast Independent Living Program, 20 Ballard Road, in Lawrence. Telephone: 978-687-4288.

Affordable housing law forum

State Sens. Sue Tucker (D-Andover) and Bruce Tarr (R-Gloucester) will host a forum on the state's affordable housing law, known as Chapter 40B, on Wednesday, April 30 from 3:30 to 7 p.m. at the North Andover Middle School, 495 Main St., North Andover.

Tucker and Tarr were appointed by Governor Mitt Romney to serve on a statewide task force to evaluate the operations and impacts of this controversial law. Through the forum, they are seeking to inform local officials and citizens of recent and potential regulatory changes involving Ch. 40B and to receive comment on its impacts upon municipalities in the region, according to Tucker's office.

"We need to roll up our sleeves and work together in a bipartisan way to address the region's housing challenges," Tucker said. "This forum is an opportunity for me to bring community input to the 40B Commission in Boston."

Immediately preceding the forum, Tucker and Tarr will meet with public officials from Andover, Dracut, Middleton, North Andover, North Reading, Tewksbury and Wilmington to discuss how they are affected by the provisions of the law and potential changes to improve its impacts.

Pre-1940s Andover grave disturbed

Passersby made a chilling discovery at the Sacred Hearts Cemetery off Corbett Street on Sunday, and alerted police to it. Human remains, specifically two femur bones had been uncovered by a front loader digging another grave.

Marcelle Goulet, who oversees the cemetery for the Lawrence Sacred Hearts Church says the disturbance happened in an old part of the cemetery when a new grave was being dug. Cement dividers weren't used before the 1940s, she says, and caskets, especially cheaper ones that can be made of cardboard, disintegrate quickly.

Goulet says the occurrence isn't uncommon, but it is taken seriously when it does happen. "You're real careful about it, but every so often it happens," she said.

The remains were reburied at the cemetery.

Goulet said a similar disturbance happened in the St. Patrick's Cemetery in Lawrence two weeks ago. The Sacred Hearts Cemetery is near the Lawrence line.

Vote NO on Article 41

The Andover Board of Selectmen and Planning Board voted disapproval of Article 41.

The Andover Zoning Board of Appeals approved Avalon at St. Clare.

The Selectmen enter into a contract with AvalonBay.

A small group of Andover residents wants the Town of Andover to go back on its word and rescind the contract.

At the April 14th Selectmen's meeting, Town Council, Thomas Urbelis, advised the Selectmen to disapprove Article 41.

The following Andover residents have been named to the dean's list at Providence College in Providence, R.I. for the fall 2002 semester:

- Matthew Fournier '05;
- Matthew Keough '06;
- Justin Lecam '03;
- Maureen Lothrop '05;
- Natasha Venuti '05.

Elizabeth Wheeler, a fourth-year student at the College of the Holy Cross, has been named to the dean's list for the first semester of the 2002-03 academic year. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Wheeler of Andover.

She has a double major in political science and Italian.

Jyoti Folch of Andover, a psychology major, has been named to the University of Massachusetts Dartmouth dean's list.

Andrew Y. Ong of Andover, a student in the Robert R. McCormick School of Engineering and Applied Science at Northwestern University in Evanston, Ill., has been named to the dean's list for the fall quarter of the 2002-03 academic year.

Students on the dean's list have attained a grade point average of at least 3.75 out of a possible 4.0.

Amy C. Garvin, of Andover, was recently inducted into the TAU Chapter of Delta Epsilon Sigma, a national honor society for students, faculty and alumni of colleges and universities with a Catholic tradition.

Garvin is a junior nursing major at Saint Anselm College in Manchester, N.H.

Garvin, along with 36 other new members, was honored based on academic performance and campus/community leadership.

Kathryn Sand, Natalia Tsai and Benjamin Wish, all of Andover, were named to the dean's list at Bates College in Lewiston, Maine as a result of their scholastic standing during the first semester of the 2002-03 academic year.

To qualify for the dean's list at Bates, a student must maintain a better than B+ average for the semester, for a minimum quality point ratio of 3.6.

Sand, a sophomore economics major, is the daughter of David and Jean Sand, 17 Abbot St., and is a 2001 graduate of Phillips Academy.

New committee members James, Barber looking for school-money sources

By Ben Hellman

TWO NEW SCHOOL COMMITTEE members are preparing to unveil a plan after Town Meeting they hope will provide more revenue for the Andover school system.

Tony James said he and fellow School Committee member Art Barber—both elected last month—will listen to anybody with a good idea to raise money for the schools. The two have made comments in recent weeks that a plan is brewing to bring new money into the system. Still keeping a lid on details this week, James and Barber referred to campaign promises and said the entire plan would be unveiled in early May.

"We're very excited," said Barber this week. "We're pushing forth with our plan. We're excited about it; everybody we've talked to is excited about it."

In their campaigns, James suggested creating an education foundation, while Barber suggested creating a grant-writ-

Brookline are notable examples of systems with such foundations, he said. Brookline raises about $500,000 per year through two such foundations, according to James.

James said he has spoken to School Committee candidate John Roberts about an idea Roberts presented during the campaign to rent school buildings after hours to generate money. For example, Roberts suggested renting classroom space to local colleges during the late afternoon or nighttime.

"We think the idea has some merit," said James. He's asked Roberts to work with School Committee members to bring it to fruition.

At the last School Committee meeting, Barber mentioned the committee's May 6 meeting as a possible time for unveiling the revenue-beefing plan. He said he wanted voters to know he and James are following through with campaign promises.

James said he is continuing to push for a "fairly aggressive educational foundation" including residents, small businesses and Andover High School alumni. Winchester, Hamilton Wenham and

Addison offers After School program

The Addison Gallery of American Art's After School and Vacation Programs provide opportunities for children to appreciate art through an interactive museum experience.

A four-session program features weekly art appreciation discussions and hands-on activities related to the museum's current exhibitions:

Ashley Floreen of Andover was selected to attend the National Young Leaders Conference (NYLC) this winter in Washington, D.C. NYLC is a leadership development program for high school students who have demonstrated leadership potential and scholastic merit. Floreen was among 400 outstanding National Scholars from around the country to attend the Conference.

Ashley Floreen

The theme of NYLC is the Leaders of Tomorrow Meeting the Leaders of Today. Throughout the six-day conference, Floreen interacted with key elected officials, political appointees and news makers from the three branches of government, the media and the international community.

Highlights of the program included welcoming remarks from the floor of the US House of Representatives and a panel discussion with prominent journalists at the National Press Club. Floreen also met with senators and a representative or an appointed member of their staff to discuss important issues facing the nation.

In addition to being an honor student and a senior at Andover High School, Floreen is active in her community and her youth group at South Church in Andover. Twice a year she participates in her youth group's community service outreach trips across the country, repairing homes and working in food banks and soup kitchens.

She danced at Nancy Chippendale Dance Studios in North Andover for 13 years, was a member of its senior company, and won numerous regional and national medals. Floreen also plays the flute and was a member of the pit orchestra in Andover High School's production of Les Miserables.

Two Andover students enrolled in the S.I. Newhouse School of Public Communications at Syracuse University were named to the dean's list for the fall 2002 semester.

James Michael Chercallah, of 11 Countryside Way, is a junior majoring in broadcast journalism.

Laura O'Connell, of 6 Fairfax Drive, is a freshman majoring in public communications.

To qualify, students must achieve at least a 3.4 grade-point average (on a 4.0 scale) during the semester.

Caeleigh Stuart, a senior at Chapel Hill-Chauncy Hall School in Waltham, was recently awarded a Wentworth Merit Scholarship to help her with the costs of attending college.

Caeleigh will attend Wentworth Institute of Technology this fall. According to Wentworth's congratulatory letter, the award is "offered to academically superior students as a symbol of Wentworth's commitment to educating the architects, designers, engineers, technologists and managers of technology needed by our society."

Stuart, who said she was "ecstatic" when she heard the news, plans to major in industrial design and is specifically interested in designing automobiles. She noted that her three years at CH-CH "gave me a lot of things and taught me a lot."

Stuart is the daughter of Cynthia Arsenault of Andover.

Jeffrey V. Bowe, son of Vinette M. Bowe of Andover and the late Jeffrey J. Bowe III, was named to the Merrimack College dean's list for the fall 2002 semester. Bowe is a communication major, and is currently employed part time by the Danvers Savings Bank in Andover.

Ruchi Singh Sisodia of Andover has earned faculty honors from Trinity College in Hartford, Conn., for the fall 2002 semester.

A graduate of Andover High School, Sisodia is a member of the class of 2004, currently majoring in political science.

To earn faculty honors, a student must achieve a semester grade-point average of A-minus or better, with no individual letter grade below B-minus.

American International College recently named 219 students to the dean's list for the fall 2002 semester. Students who qualified for the dean's list are full-time students with a grade-point average between 3.3 and 4.0 for the semester.

Jackie Lee of Andover, a psychology major, was named to the dean's list.

hensive permit is very difficult," she said of affordable housing complexes and the likelihood that the state will approve them if a town opposes them.

But if each new condo has an average of one person who drives to and from work every day, the complex will add at least 140 car trips to streets that are already dangerous and congested at rush hour, Verzola-Henry said.

"We went after the development for the same reason we go after everything: traffic," she said. "When the trains go by, everything gets backed up, on all the streets. We can always tell when a train has gone by, because the cars have backed up horribly on our street."

Traffic studies on the effect of the new housing satisfied the Zoning Board, said Gary Patch, who is developing the complex with Perkins.

The developers originally planned 88 units, but scaled the project down to 72 townhouses and then met the town's objections by reducing it further to 68.

Preservationists urged the developers to keep the old mill building, which housed businesses including a pottery maker and a company that shredded rubber tires for running tracks, but the building inspector declared the old mill unstable. When it was torn down two weeks ago much of the bricks, timber and flooring were saved by a Vermont company for reuse, Perkins said.

The remaining brick and concrete were recycled by being crushed and mixed with gravel at the Deloury Industries plant in Dracut, said David Deloury, site developer for the project.

All that remains on the lot is the oversized double-bay garage at 12 Dale St., which will be demolished, Perkins said.

At the request of the Ballardvale Historic District Commission, the developers voluntarily reduced the height of the condos from four and a half stories to three stories, matching the surrounding neighborhood, said commission member Christopher Huntress.

Perkins also agreed to redesign the front of the building to resemble the old mill, Huntress said.

"It took a while, but in the end he really came around and responded to some of our concerns," he said. "We were pleased he was as responsible as he was."

"This is his show place. This is a gem of Andover and he wants to polish it. He has good intentions," says Peter Caruso, DiNapoli's attorney, who provided the details of the plan. "Tony has some big plans to dress it up."

DiNapoli was out of the country this week and unavailable for comment.

DiNapoli has had discussions with the planning department and Preservation Commission about his ideas. Chairwoman Karen Herman says she appreciated that DiNapoli had shared his ideas with the board as they began to take shape.

"Generally, what we're looking at is how he's going to treat the Musgrove Building, because it is a landmark building in town," says Herman. "Our concerns focus on, would he change the building and what kind of changes would he have."

Herman says Post Office Avenue has some of the oldest buildings in the downtown, and there would be interest in protecting their historic value. She suggests the Preservation Commission also may have issues with DiNapoli's idea for an archway over Post Office Avenue, where the street connects with Main Street.

"I would say that would detract from the building," says Herman. "I appreciate that he was trying to replicate the arches in the building, but sometimes you can do too much."

The plan has not been submitted to the necessary town boards for approval yet, and work remains to be done.

"To us lay people it would be a preliminary plan, but not in a legal sense," says Caruso. "It's been talked about, it's been put on paper, it's real."

DiNapoli, who lives on Central Street, also owns a two-family residence on South Main Street, another residence on Central Street and the Nathan Frye Complex, located where Railroad Street meets North Main Street.

Last year, DiNapoli bought the Musgrove Building for $4.3 million, the Post Office Avenue building for $821,000 and the parking lot at the end of Post Office Avenue for $273,000.

He is proposing replacing the parking lot with a two-level garage, the bottom floor of which would be slightly below ground level.

Town Meeting

Town Meeting will decide whether to spend $9,000 on July 4 fireworks.

Holiday expenses

Best bang-for-the-buck eyed

By Andrea Gregory

Sparks may fly when it comes time for Town Meeting voters to make some tough decisions, but one decision will determine whether any sparks fly on July 4.

There is no recommendation by the selectmen either way when it comes to Article 13 asking for $9,000 for Andover's Independence Day fireworks celebration. Selectmen have also not yet made a recommendation on Article 14 asking for $19,500 to fund holiday lighting in the downtown area.

Selectmen Mary Lyman and Ray Hender voted to recommend disapproval of both Article 13 and 14, while Selectmen Ted Teichert and John Hess voted to recommend approval of both articles. Selectman Brian Major was absent from the meeting the night these articles were addressed, and would have been the tie breaker. Major has not been available for comment, so it's unclear how he stands on the issue.

With budget cuts required in all town departments, Lyman says this just isn't the year financially for such extra expenses. Lyman says that even though the costs may be small, they add up and she believes the almost $30,000 could serve a better purpose if spent elsewhere.

Teichert said when he weighs the cost of these items against their effect, he believes they are worth funding.

"We're not talking about a lot of money," he says.

"It's the holidays," says Teichert. "It's being part of the community spirit."

Article 4: The budget

Layoffs hit schools the hardest

By Jason Tait and Andrea Gregory

To keep a tax hike at a minimum, residents are being asked to approve cuts in school services, and to lesser extent public safety, at next week's annual Town Meeting.

"There is so much bad news in this budget," Finance Committee Chairman Joanne F. Marden said. "There are a lot of difficult decisions that have to be made."

Even with the planned spending cuts, the operating budget would still jump from the $102.9 million approved last year to more than $106.1 million, according to the Finance Committee report. In this situation, however, spending more money does not mean more services because it costs more to run the town than what property taxes, state aid and local tax increases can cover, Andover leaders say.

Property taxes for the owner of the average home valued at $470,000 will jump $215 if the budget is approved. Last year's increase was $480.

If voters approve the proposed budget at the meeting, which starts Monday, they will eliminate the equivalent of 53 school jobs – the equivalent of 33 full-time teachers – and the town will cut the equivalent of 13 positions – four of those from the police and fire departments.

Rising costs in health insurance, employee pay raises, snow removal and special education are forcing the town to cut services. Meanwhile, town leaders expect the state to cut its aid by $1.1 million.

The proposed budget contains these school cuts and fees: Andover High

Cut the equivalent of 11 teaching jobs and 4 support staff, a total cut of $666,594.

Middle schools

Cut the equivalent of 9.5 teaching jobs and stipends; $543,324.

Elementary schools

Cut the equivalent of 13 teaching jobs and 10 support positions; $844,376.

Other

Parking – Fees for high school students to park on the property will jump to raise $30,000 more in total.

Lunch – Increased prices to raise an extra $50,000 total.

Buses – Charge fees for students in grades 7 to 12 to raise $225,000.

Marden said Andover must either cut spending or raise taxes, but voters soundly defeated last year's Proposition 2 1/2 override attempt, and town leaders decided not to propose another. The average property tax bill has jumped more than 100 percent since 1991, from $2,697 to a projected $5,681 next year.

The potential loss of the equivalent of 53 school jobs is one of Andover's most highly debated issues going into Town Meeting.

Marden said some parents may ask that the current budget get revised at the meeting to beef up the school budget and avoid teacher layoffs, but that would only delay the budget process because spending cuts must be made somewhere in the budget.

School Committee Chairman Tina B. Girdwood said she does not expect much debate Monday because the budget has been argued in public for about three months.

"If there's going to be a large discussion I would be surprised," she said. "People may be disappointed. They may not like it. There's also a reality about the economy and some costs have escalated faster than we anticipated."

Though the schools face the most obvious hit, some town department heads say they have substantial cuts awaiting them as well.

Joe Piantedosi, director of plant and facilities, said his department is looking at both a cut in funding, and the need to take on additional tasks. He calls the situation a "double whammy."

Piantedosi said his department is now maintaining three new facilities – two new schools and the new public safety center. He said this is an additional 202,000 square feet of land his department will be responsible for. He said it's a 26.6 percent increase in the workload, though his department will have less to spend.

He said out of all the departments, his may have taken the biggest hit. "If we didn't, we were very close," he said. "It's a pretty substantial cut."

He said three employees are facing layoffs – two part-time phone operators and one full-time trades person. "We will do our best to make it work," he said, but residents will notice some of the changes. "It's a huge list of small items."

For instance, callers will no longer be greeted by a live person. Piantedosi said the two phone operators will be replaced by a machine. Trash cans usually placed in the downtown area won't make it to the streets this year.

Ideas for future budgets

In the months leading up to Town Meeting, different ideas to save money at the schools and in the town were floated by residents and town officials. Some of these may never be mentioned again, but others may have the legs to influence future budget discussions.

Custodians sweep away the snow, too

Dean LaFitt, a junior custodian at West Middle School, makes about $30 per hour on overtime. The town pays private contractors to plow at a cost of $45 or more per hour. So, since custodians are at the schools early to shovel sidewalks anyway, LaFitt figures they might as well plow the parking lots, too.

"It's a simple proposal. Leave the contractors to do the streets and let us do the schools. How many schools do we have? That should save some nice pocket change."

LaFitt says the custodians take pride in the appearance of their schools. He says the change will be a win-win situation for the town and its workers.

"Give us money in the pocket, save the town a lot of money," says LaFitt. "They're our buildings. We go into those buildings and take care of them."

Dean LaFitt suggests custodians, who already clear school sidewalks of snow before school, could also clear the parking lots, freeing other plows.

whereas the contractor just wants to move on to the next place."

Would the town consider such a change? "You have to cost it out exactly and look at the pros and cons of a private worker versus a town worker," says Selectman Ted Teichert. "You have to study it further, but it's always worth looking into."

– Neil Fater

Town Meeting basics

Andover's Annual Town Meeting will be held on April 28 and 29 at the Andover High School Field House and May 5 and 6 at the Collins Center at Andover High School on Shawshoan Road. The meetings will start at 7 p.m. each night.

A shuttle bus will run from the parking lot on Red Spring Road and will make a loop through the West Middle School parking lot. Another shuttle bus will run from the parking lot of West Elementary School on Beacon Street to the High School. Shuttle service will start at 6:15 p.m.

Babysitting will be available until 10 p.m. Preregistration is mandatory and must be reserved by Thursday, April 24. The fee is $10 per child per night. Call the Department of Community Services at 978-623-8274 to make a reservation.

All registered voters who attend Town Meeting must check into the meeting in the lobby of Andover High School on April 28 and 29 and the lobby of the Collins Center on May 5 and 6. They may also visit the town Web site at www.town.andover.ma.us and do a precinct search under "Publications," Town Clerk's Upcoming Events". The town recommends that people check their precinct numbers before going to the meeting to avoid delays at the check-in area.

Questions? Call the town clerk's office at 978-623-8200.

Housing issues fuel variety of articles at 2003 meeting

OVERLAY DISTRICTS

Mike and Sharon Ristuccia, outside the home they moved.

For historic homes, for groundwater

By Ben Hellman

Residents will have better opportunities to preserve historic homes, but will see building restrictions if Articles 29 and 54 are passed.

Article 29 is a zoning bylaw amendment that answers resident Mike Ristuccia's dilemma of having moved an historic home into a lot too small for it to be hooked up to utilities under current bylaws. Ristuccia brought a private article to Town Meeting last year, but withdrew it on suggestion of the Planning Board, who wanted a tighter article.

Article 29 allows residents to get a special permit to rezone a lot with an historic home or to move a home to another lot. The article says the permit would take into consideration the appropriateness of the structure to its new surroundings.

Article 54 would create a zone to protect a drainage area that supplies drinking water to the Tewksbury Hospital. The zone affects areas bordering Tewksbury that lie west of Interstate 93.

If passed, residents in the proposed overlay district will need to ask the town's permission before having any work done on their property. The resident would also have to present maps to the Planning Board before having work done to a home.

The article was requested by the Massachusetts Department of Public Health, and town health director Everett Penney says the Planning Board would look at the environmental impact of construction work in deciding permits.

By Andrea Gregory

One of the philosophical questions for Town Meeting voters this year seems to be: What kind of housing stock should Andover offer? Another: What should its approach be to affordable housing?

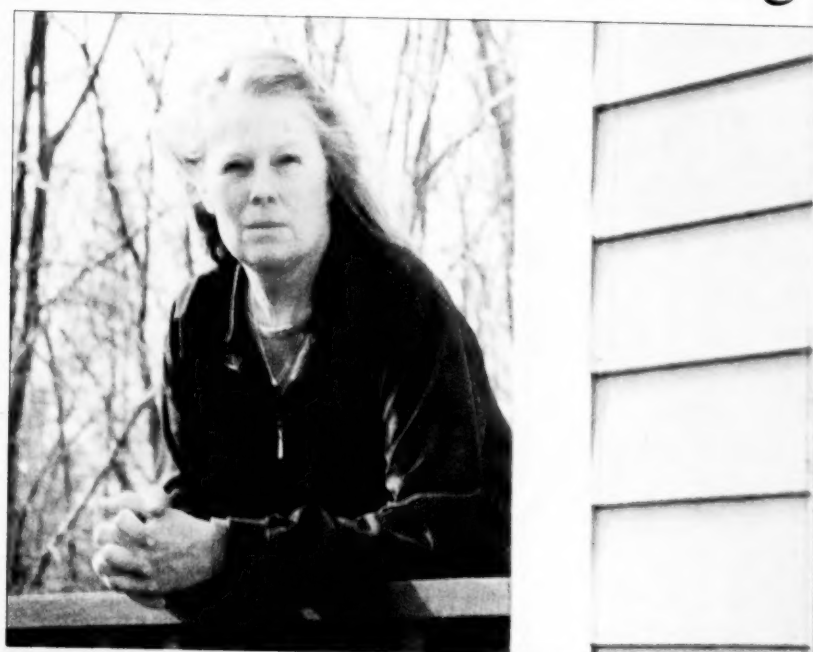

With warrant articles being brought to Town Meeting by the Housing Partnership Committee and private citizens, Town Meeting voters will decide:

- if they should allow accessory dwelling units to be built for purposes other than housing a sick relative. This could offer residents the option of having healthy family members move in to separate units attached to their homes, or creating an attached apartment to be rented out. This would allow anyone in town who wants to add an apartment to their house to do so, possibly encouraging a spurt of new rental units.

- if dimensional special permits are the right way to help increase the town's affordable housing stock. If Article 32 is approved, people will be allowed to build on lots that are too small for homes under current zoning restrictions, as part of an effort to add more affordable homes to Andover. Detractors say this runs the risk of disrupting the feel of local neighborhoods.

- if they want to support an article by Protect Andover Zoning – a group of River Road residents – aimed at stopping the Avalon Bay 40B project. This could slow down and potentially stop the Avalon Bay development, but it might also leave the town with legal problems and possibly owing money to the developers.

- if the town should allow a sewer hookup to 459 River Road

Eileen Standerwick hopes to stop a 115-unit Ch. 40B project by Avalon Bay from being built on River Road, near her home. She dreads the traffic and noise it will bring to the neighborhood.

for the Franciscan Friary and the Christian Formation Center, along with 10 single-family homes that a developer plans to build.

- if they want an historic overlay district that will create special permits for people who want to save historic homes (see story at left).

45: Accessory dwelling units

When it comes to accessory dwelling units, Article 45, Susan Stott, Housing Partnership Committee member, said there's a chance for some last-minute tweaking. By slightly modifying it, she said she hopes to allow for more inexpensive housing options in town, while alleviating fears that voters may have about a number of rental units popping up in their neighborhood. Some residents fear rental units will lead to people paving their lawns for parking.

"The current bylaws are too strict," said Stott, and the problem is it prevents many people who would benefit from adding a unit – for a healthy family member or for rental income – from doing so.

Right now, accessory dwelling units are only permitted to house a sick immediate relative. If the relative recovers or stops living there, the unit must be torn down or the kitchen dismantled.

Stott said she is aware of the concerns some residents have regarding changes to the current bylaw. One being the thought of removing the relative restriction opens the flood gates for a wave of accessory dwelling units to start appearing all over town.

Paul Cavicchi, of 24 Wild Rose Drive, expressed concern to the selectmen about Article 45 at the April 14 meeting. He talked about the potential for many units being created around town.

"This article applies to any owner-occupied single-family home on any street, in any neighborhood, anywhere in Andover," he said to the selectmen, reading from a prepared statement.

More ideas for saving money in budget

By Ben Hellman

In the months leading up to Town Meeting, different ideas to save money at the schools and in the town were discussed by residents or town officials and then dropped – or set aside until later. These are some of some cash-saving ideas mentioned this year:

- Two-day teacher furlough - $360,000 or a town-wide furlough for more than $400,000
- Consolidation of town and school side technical departments - $500,000
- Closure of Shawsheen School - $300,000
- Restriction of vehicles for town department heads - unknown savings

Furlough

The proposed teacher-furlough would have saved the town $360,000, but was dropped after the town manager dismissed the idea for the town as a whole, and teachers union president Tom Meyers called it "blackmail". The two unpaid days off from work would have been teachers' preparation days and would not have interrupted classes.

School Committee member Christopher Smith and Meyers traded criticisms after Smith said the union's refusal to consider the furlough or a more moderate pay increase than the contracted 5 percent could cause layoffs in the fall.

Bach dropped the proposal after the town budget came out and lacked a similar furlough. Town Manager Buzz Stapeczynski says he never considered the furlough even though town and school sides could have saved an estimated $400,000.

Smith holds to his word that the furlough could save positions and jobs. "That's something (the teachers) have to vote on as a union. We can save every single teacher's job. We could put every position back in," he said this week.

Tech consolidation

Smith says the proposal to combine the town and school's technical departments is on the drawing board and full-blown consolidation could come in a year or two. "I absolutely see that happening in the 2005 fiscal year. It seems like there's support all around," he said this week.

Smith says the superintendent, town manager, selectmen and new School Committee members have supported the project, which he originally estimated could save the town $500,000 in salaries if eight school tech positions were cut. Other officials have suggested far more modest savings.

Bach, Stapeczynski and Selectman Brian Major have said they support looking into the possibility of the consolidation.

Major didn't agree that the measure would automatically result in savings, but he did agree with Smith that it would have other benefits, such as improving communication across departments. Smith said that with a consolidated system, town information could be more easily accessed by departments and residents.

Shawsheen closure

The idea of closing or reconstituting the Shawsheen School was floated during the schools budget process. Former School Committee candidate John Roberts said that if there was a good reason for spending more than $300,000 to keep the school running, he never heard it.

The administration says that if Shawsheen closed, it would be as expensive to build a new school as it would to bring Shawsheen back up to code.

It also says closing Shawsheen would cause overcrowding at West Elementary and High Plain.

By Andrea Gregory

Town Meeting will address several projects with heavy costs, but one is being referred to as a matter of safety.

A retaining wall on Red Spring Road collapsed decades ago, taking part of the street with it. The selectmen and the Department of Public Works don't want to see that happen again, and believe they need to replace the wall to make the area safe. Enter Article 25, a $400,000 article that will create a new retaining wall.

The wall runs about 200 feet along Red Spring Road, between Cuba Street and Shawsheen Road, keeping the road from falling into the Shawsheen River. Though repairs have been made in previous years, Jack Petkus, public works director, and the selectmen agree this is the year to replace the wall entirely.

It will be up to Town Meeting voters to decide if $400,000 should be spent on the project.

Selectman Mary Lyman said the selectmen are recommending approval. "It's a public safety issue," she says.

"That's one thing that kind of

HOUSING ISSUES

"I personally think people live in a single family home because they want to live in a single family home," said Stott.

She said just because people would be allowed to build a unit, doesn't mean everyone in town will do it. She said she sees it being used for its intended purposes of allowing people to stay in their homes longer by giving them rental income, or having relatives move in with them.

"I think the people who want to add accessory dwelling units are those types of people," she said.

Article 32

Stott said the Housing Partnership Committee attempts to "encourage the kind of affordable housing the town wants and not just react to 40Bs." She says an example of this is the dimensional special permit article which she describes as a local alternative to 40B projects.

This article would allow affordable homes to be built on lots that are too small for homes by current zoning standards.

"It opens up one more option," she said adding, "If you have a sewer you don't have a need for all that space from a public health and welfare point of view."

Stott said this is land with no value under current zoning laws therefore the owner may sell it for less. She said the maximum number of lots where these types of projects could be constructed is believed to be 50, but that's not saying 50 new affordable houses will come to town. She said this is a slow process that will occur over a long period of time.

Avalon Bay

A private warrant article submitted by the resident group Protect Andover Zoning aims to stop the Avalon Bay company from bringing a 115-unit 40B apartment complex to River Road. The selectmen are not supporting this warrant article and have been warned by town council that if it passes the town could face legal repercussions.

In 1997, Town Meeting voted to allow the town to enter into sewer agreements with Tewksbury and Lowell and extend a sewer line down River Road to assist the nuns of St. Clare. Now, Avalon Bay intends to use this line for its complex.

"A lot of people have been caught in the cross fire, including the selectmen," said Eileen Standerwick, PAZ member and abutter to the property.

Standerwick said she sympathizes with the selectmen and the position they are in, but she and the rest of PAZ intend to fight Avalon Bay. According to Standerwick, the fight has been an ongoing process for PAZ.

"Town Meeting is all about what voters vote for. In this case they voted for one thing and got something totally different," said Standerwick.

Avalon Bay representatives have said the intent of 1997 Town Meeting does not have bearing on their right to connect to the River Road sewer.

Article 50 - River Road

The selectmen said they have learned their lesson with the nuns in 1997, and so another potential River Road development asking for a sewer-line hook up has them weary. They have recommended disapproval of the article.

"I personally was responding to that," said Selectman Mary Lyman about her vote.

Ed Doherty, land developer, stated for the record before selectmen that his intentions had nothing to do with a 40B project and insisted his interest as a land developer is quite different than Avalon Bay's interest. Doherty plans to bring a 10-home neighborhood and possibly the Melmark school for autistic children to land owned by the Franciscans. The project can still be pursued without a sewer-line hook up, according to Planning Director Steve Colyer, but a project like that would be more costly.

Doherty said the article is going forward as is, with a vote to recommend approval by the Planning Board. He says he hopes the voters are more accepting of his proposal than the selectmen.

"They think if they don't give me sewer the land is just going to sit there. They're wrong," said Doherty. "We'll just put our faith in the voters of Andover."

Article 56

Article 56 looks to change a home on High Street from Single Residence zoning to Apartment zoning. The property is on the line between the two zoning districts, and a developer is interested in converting the home into a multi-unit dwelling. Neighbors object to changing the zoning.

Articles expected to be withdrawn

What you won't see at Town Meeting

By Andrea Gregory

Town Meeting is coming, but several articles may be left on the cutting room floor before debate on them even gets started.

Originally this year's warrant contained 62 articles, but in the past few weeks the number has been on a steady decline. Voters can expect to see 12 to 16 percent of the articles make only a brief appearance before being withdrawn.

"There's eight pretty definite," said Town Manager Buzz Stapczynski adding there are two more articles he suspects will also be withdrawn.

Before the warrant officially closed, an article seeking $290,000 for a new senior center design was dropped. Selectman Mary Lyman said it became apparent it wasn't the right year for such a project given the financial hardship so many departments are facing. But Lyman said the project is far from abandoned.

"We're working on it, hoping for a better economy," she said. "You never know what might happen in the next year or so."

Article 28 which asks for $230,000 to create more athletic fields will be withdrawn because of economic circumstances as well.

Director of Plant and Facilities Joe Piantedosi said the town's focus will shift to maintaining and improving its current fields. When the decision was made to withdraw the article, Piantedosi couldn't say if next year would offer better timing, leaving new playing fields on hold until further notice.

Conversions

The Housing Partnership Committee is familiar with the need to withdraw an article. It appears any debating about changing bylaws on converting homes to multi-unit dwellings will come after Town Meeting. Because there's just not enough time to make necessary adjustments to its article on conversions, without making numerous confusing amendments at Town Meeting, the committee will withdraw Article 49, and bring a revised version back next year.

According to Susan Stott, the article was withdrawn from last year's Town Meeting, too. Members of the committee are hoping the third time will be a charm, when they take into consideration suggestions made by a concerned resident, Abigail O'Hara, and bring the article back next year.

O'Hara presented possible amendments and pointed out what she saw as flaws in the article, speaking on behalf of several downtown residents. Stott said many of O'Hara's recommendations made sense for what they were trying to achieve.

The committee hopes to start working early on next year's proposal, immediately following this year's Town Meeting.

Not needed items

Other things voters won't see are articles that really don't call for Town Meeting votes.

Stapczynski said there are no unpaid bills which would have been addressed in Article 11, so it is set to be withdrawn. Stapczynski said Article 12, on the elderly disabled transportation program, has no place at Town Meeting either. It would have sought $25,000 for the program, but after the article was submitted officials realized sufficient funds were already in place.

Article 58 would have given veterans who passed up their opportunity to buy back military years of service a second chance. But after the article was submitted it became apparent there are not Andover veterans in need of a renewed chance, said John Doherty, veterans' services agent.

Early retirement

Two articles dealing with reducing town employees through early-retirement incentives will be given explanation

Harry Voorhees has indicated he plans to withdraw his article seeking a bylaw that would encourage people to clean their sidewalks of snow more promptly.

time, but it's not clear if votes will follow. According to Stapczynski Article 51 will be withdrawn if a bill passes through the legislature in time because there won't be a need for it.

"We don't know right now," said Mary Lyman, adding whether this issue calls for a Town Meeting vote will come down to the wire.

But discussion and awareness of the early-retirement program will come to Town Meeting one way or another. "It would kind of be like an FYI, not a warrant article for a vote," she said.

According to Lyman if the state doesn't come through on time Andover will be voting on its own version of an early-retirement incentive plan. "I think (Stapczynski) is banking on that the state is going to do this," she said.

Lyman said the point is to free up budget dollars, but warned, "There's no such thing as a free lunch," and adopting a new early-retirement plan will cost something. What is not clear is what that cost will be, and how many employees who will be granted the option.

According to Doherty, there are 157 qualified candidates, but not all of them would want to participate, or be allowed to take part in the new program.

"It's typically done to have higher paid employees retire early," Doherty said. "This fits in with the general budget crunch."

Doherty said Andover passed up on its last opportunity to take part in this program and it's not alone seeking to adopt it on its next trip around. "Most municipalities have either done it, are doing it or are contemplating it," said Doherty.

Snow shoveling

And without recommended approval by the selectmen private Article 42 looks as though it will be buried in the pile of withdrawn articles. Article 42 was the attempt of Harry Voorhees to create a bylaw requiring all residents to shovel out their sidewalks following each snowfall.

Voorhees said at the time the selectmen voted to recommend disapproval he would not pursue the issue and would be withdrawing it. According to Voorhees the intent was for residents to pitch in when it came to snow removal. It would have required residents to clear the snow from the sidewalks in front of their property within 16 hours following the end of each snowfall. Voorhees said he was not looking to attach fines to be handed out to violators, and saw the idea as more of a community effort than a strictly enforced law.

sheen closure, the night of the election, was that no School Committee member had recommended closing it. New member Art Barber has said he wants to keep the school open, while Tony James has suggested the issue might be worth studying. Roberts wants to know why the school should be kept open. "Let's discuss this stuff publicly - bring it out in the open," he said.

Town vehicles

The town provides 18 employees with vehicles. All of these employees can be called in the middle of the night to respond to emergencies, though no record is kept on how often these late-night emergencies occur.

Police Chief Brian Pattullo and his No. 2, Lt. Jim Hashem both have cars. "I respond to a scene and take immediate control and make sure the crime scene's protected. Same with Jim Hashem," he said. "I look at it as who needs to be there immediately."

On the frequency of having to respond to late night emergencies, Joe Piantedosi, plant and facilities director and vehicle recipient said, "It depends. In the winter time, sometimes we might get several calls on a weekend. I don't always respond. I might talk over the phone."

Andover officials say its time to upgrade the ozone purification system at the town's lauded water-treatment plant.

Treatment plant upgrade

$4.5 million for cleaner water

By Ben Hellman

The Public Works Department is asking for about $4.5 million for a water-treatment upgrade in Article 20. The request would purchase a new ozone purification system, which the town says would improve the taste and quality of the water in Andover. It would be installed in 2005 and raise the average water bill $21 in 2008.

Public Works Chief Jack Petkus says the old system is at the end of its useful life and it is time to invest in a new system rather than pay for upkeep of the old one. John Pollano, plant superintendent, has argued that upgrading the plant now prevents Andover from having to do the work in an emergency mode.

He is also trying to bring up the water standards in anticipation of a tightening of regulations concerning chlorine bi-products. Chlorine will be necessary in the foreseeable future, but its use could affect taste.

But its $4.5 million request has left a bad taste in resident John Wragg's mouth. He says the town is rushing into a purchase before it knows what sort of water regulations it might face. That sort of rushing reminds him of the problems he believes occurred when the town rushed to start the Andover High School building project and to cap the landfill at Deyermund Field. "If they vote for this it will mean $4.5 million down the drain," he said.

Wragg points to a statement made in engineering firm Camp Dresser and McKee's report to the town. On page 5-1 of that report he says the company rated the current system "functioning effectively and cost effective."

He wants the town to wait on installing a new system until expected water-purity regulations are established, which could happen in 2008. "It's unrealistic that the system would fail in the next five years," he said.

Regardless of how much longer the system can last, Pollano has said that the current ozone system must be shut for repairs for up to three months during the winter, because of its age. During this time, the town relies on an older purification method that primarily deals with color and odor problems. In the Finance Committee report this year, town officials say a proper ozone system is critical in protecting people from disease including cancer and outbreaks of waterborne diseases.

However, Wragg, who holds degrees in civil engineering, argues the Andover ozone system is already above standard. He claims Andover drinking water could get dirtier by 300 percent and still pass tests. As for the taste of chlorine currently in the water: "You would need the palette of a French wine taster to taste it."

Wragg says that CDM's report is too complicated for most residents to understand. "They have to depend on their elected officials," he said. Wragg pointed out that none of the selectmen have degrees in engineering and they are relying on the opinions of others, such as the company that would benefit from Andover embarking on a treatment-plant project.

Two-thirds of voters must approve the measure. Next year, DPW could ask for another $4.7 million to replace the filtration system and more money to expend the administrative office.

has to be done," says Selectman Ted Teichert. "It could be a tough situation if it doesn't."

Petkus pointed out the wall's problems are visible. The wall is supposed to be vertical or even tapered back, but it is currently slanted in the wrong direction.

At the time the article was drafted the wall had not been evaluated by an engineer and Petkus called the $400,000 figure a rough number.

The project would start after July 1, with construction taking place as early as next fall. The old mason structure would be replaced with concrete.

"It's one of those things that has to be voted on, but it has to be done," said Teichert.

LETTERS ON TOWN MEETING

Vote no: Town can't afford lawsuit

Editor, Townsman:

I recently read an article in the paper about one of the warrant articles at Town Meeting. Article 41, as proposed by some residents, is asking Town Meeting to tell the selectmen to rescind a contract that they signed last year. I understand the selectmen were advised by their lawyer that this action could cause problems for the town. Town Counsel Thomas J. Urbelis said approval of the article proposed by the group Protect Andover Zoning (PAZ) would expose the town to potentially expensive lawsuits.

I hope the residents who attend Town Meeting will listen to the town's attorney and vote against Article 41. The last thing Andover needs is to waste money fighting a lawsuit because the town breached a contract.

This year is an especially bad time to spend money foolishly. With the proposed cuts in local aid, Andover needs to spend its tax revenue on important matters such as the schools and public safety.

Andover schools are facing increased class sizes and program cuts while our roads need repair after the harsh winter. Article 41 will take money away from existing programs and services for our residents.

At Town Meeting, please vote no on Article 41.

PAZ questions why developer, but not PAZ, knew of meeting

Editor, Townsman:

Recent newspaper articles reported on the selectmen's April 14 decision to recommend disapproval of warrant Article 41. Both articles made reference to the fact that no member of Protect Andover Zoning (PAZ) was present at this selectmen's meeting.

Our many supporters should know that we have attended almost every selectmen's meeting since discussions on the private warrant articles commenced in mid-March to present our rationale. Representatives of Avalon Bay were never present at these earlier discussions of our warrant article.

I find it curious that they showed up in force — three employees of Avalon Bay (including a regional vice-president), accompanied by three lawyers — at this last meeting. Did they get a "heads up" the selectmen were going to make a final decision? If so, members of PAZ and their attorney should have been given the same courtesy. We would have been there.

Eileen Standerwick Protect Andover Zoning
8 Quail Run

1997 vote was to aid nuns — not developer — in need

Editor, Townsman:

A statement made at the April 14 selectmen's meeting has echoed in my mind; "I don't believe that the Town Meeting's intent is relevant whatsoever..."

That statement was made by an attorney for Avalon Bay, the developer of the proposed high-density 115-unit apartment complex on River Road.

He was referring to the Andover Town Meeting of 1997, where an article was considered to authorize a sewer agreement with Tewksbury. The explanation of that article contained a letter from the Poor Clare Sisters. In her letter, also presented at Town Meeting, Sister Therese Lacroix stated the sewer was needed to build a smaller monastery. There were no discussions of an apartment complex, nor of any other property beyond the new monastery. The article was approved.

In May 2002, using the Chapter 40B steamroller, the developer received board approval of an amendment to allow connection of a 115-unit for-profit apartment complex to the sewer line originally intended for the Poor Clare Sisters. Clearly, this was not the intent of Town Meeting in 1997.

At last week's selectmen's meeting, vice-chairman John Hess commented "I felt very hoodwinked by your predecessors, Mr. Mackey and his attorney in their presentations to this board and to Town Meeting regarding this property. In their presentation to us, it left a very bad taste in my mouth the whole time through." He added that he felt the board had been "held hostage by the process."

During her comments, Selectman Mary Lyman said "It bothers me that a developer walks away today thinking I voted for disapproval for the wrong reason... Listening to them (the residents of Andover) and respecting them is very important to me, I see this as the lesser of two evils. It's something that I come to reluctantly. I don't feel that we're respecting them with the presentation of the argument tonight."

The current sewer agreement is fundamentally different from the presentations and discussions made at the 1997 Town Meeting that authorized it. The town has been "held hostage" by a process and a developer that seeks to usurp residents' intentions and the clear authority of Town Meeting.

What the townspeople thought they were voting for, a sewer hook-up to alleviate financial hardship for a small group of cloistered nuns, is now apparently irrelevant. Little did we know that with our well-intentioned vote, we paved the way for a multibillion out-of-state corporation to muscle into our town.

Ours is not a government "of the lawyers, by the lawyers, for the developers"; it is a government of the people, where the intent of the people is the rule of law. I urge residents to vote in favor of Article 41, to restore the intention of the original 1997 Town Meeting vote.

Tim Carter
422 River Road

Vote yes: Andover should not be 'bullied' by developer

Editor, Townsman:

Sunday night I sat down to watch a tape of last Monday's meeting of the Board of Selectmen. It has been discussing warrant articles and recommending "approval" or "disapproval" of each one.

Enter Article 41, a private article to see if the town will keep to the original "intent" of a 1997 vote giving sewer rights solely to the Poor Clare Sisters in their new, smaller convent.

The multi-billion dollar developer, Avalon Bay, was well represented at this meeting by three attorneys and three employees. Our town counsel, Tom Urbelis, gave a summary of events leading up to Article 41. Then, a Goulston & Storrs attorney spoke for Avalon Bay.

My interpretation of his speech goes something like this:

a) the "intent" of the Town Meeting vote is irrelevant, because,

b) Avalon Bay, a multi-billion dollar developer, has already spent money and proceeded with plans based on "reliance" that they would get permission to tie into the private sewer line, and,

c) if the selectmen do not disapprove Article 41, it will cost the town a great deal of money.

I wonder if they are speaking about a lawsuit? How disappointing to listen to some of our selectmen speak eloquently about the democratic process and then, seemingly out of fear, vote to recommend disapproval. It seems to me Avalon Bay has bullied the selectmen into this decision.

As town residents, we should not cave in to veiled threats from 40B developers. I hope residents will help maintain the intent of the 1997 vote by attending Town Meeting and voting approval of Article 41.

Avoid crunch: Walk or carpool to Town Meeting

Editor, Townsman:

The Andover Community Paths Group is urging this year's Town Meeting attendees to carpool or walk to Town Meeting. This is a no-cost solution to the traffic and parking problem at Town Meeting. People who drive can park close to Town Meeting without waiting in a traffic jam. People who walk — and encourage friends to park in their driveway and walk with them — get fresh air and exercise.

Attendees of last year's Town Meeting met with frustrating traffic jams as they joined their fellow voters in converging on Andover High School's parking lots. Many latecomers drove home disgruntled when they found no empty parking slots in the vicinity of Town Meeting.

Let's all chip in to solve this problem. Residents, call friends and neighbors today to arrange a carpool or walk to Town Meeting.

Call made by H&R Block to file here year-round

By Andrea Gregory

The recent close of tax season is not going to close down the tax experts.

H&R Block is staying open and staying at its downtown location. The Andover location at 77 Main St. opened last January at the perfect time, right before everyone's taxes were due. Its year-round location for the area previously had been in Lawrence. Most H&R Block locations are opened from January until April and temporarily close down the rest of the year.

Debbie Cutrona who has been with H&R Block for 23 tax seasons and is now managing the Andover location says the new office looks promising.

"I think it's a great location, close to many places," she says, noting the shop is in downtown Andover, and close to the highway and to parking, all additional perks benefiting the company and its customers. "At the very beginning it was very slow because people didn't know we were here," she says, but by April 15, 500 tax returns were filed through the Andover location, including everything from the 1040EZ to the corporate 1120.

So, now that the due date for filing taxes has passed what will H&R be focusing on?

Cutrona laughs a little, saying the passing of April 15 doesn't always translate into a clear cut-off date for filing. She says at least 10 customers came through their office doors looking to file tax returns within a week after they were due.

"Most of them have a balance due and they know it," she says about the late arrivals. Some have even shown up with multiple years to file.

But beyond filing taxes, since the Andover H&R Block is making plans to stay open all year, Cutrona says it is also making plans to increase its in-house services.

"Most of our clients do not see anyone else," she says.

Cutrona says the location used to be a bank - Family Bank - and still has people coming in Debbie Cutrona takes a call at the H&R Block office at 77 Main St. The firm plans to make the location one of its permanent homes.

H&R Block is located in the downtown spot formerly used by Family Bank.

Grassfield's Andover among companies to pay back wages

American Foods, Inc., a Burlington-based company that operates restaurants in Waltham, Andover, Arlington, Burlington, Wayland, Danvers and Saugus - including Andover's Grassfield's in Shawshen Plaza - has agreed, without admitting liability, to pay nine employees more than $43,000 in back wages and damages to settle a lawsuit filed by the US Department of Labor alleging violations of the Fair Labor Standards Act (FLSA).

The FLSA requires that employees be paid the minimum wage of $5.15 per hour; time and one-half their regular rate of pay for hours worked over 40 per week; and that accurate records be maintained of employees' wages, hours and other conditions of employment.

"Our investigation and this court action reflect our commitment to protecting the rights of low-wage workers," said Corey Surett, district director for the Labor Department's Wage and Hour Division in Boston.

The judgment requires the defendants to provide proof to the Wage and Hour Division that all the back wages have been paid to each employee by June 30.

Sign squabble off I-93 for Tague, Chateau

Chateau not interested in negotiations, says other interests may be at play

By Andrea Gregory

The Grill 93 signs will soon read "Chateau," but the neighboring Tague Inn says it should have something to say about this.

The Chateau Restaurant has a new Andover location on River Road, which is scheduled to open around Labor Day. The Chateau plans to put up a few signs before it opens.

But, according to Phil Cronin, Tague Inn's lawyer, Tague owns the land where the large, stand-alone sign is that can be seen from Interstate-93. Therefore, Tague argues that it should have some say in how the sign looks.

"As the owner of the land we have something to say about our property. The sign is our property," says Cronin.

Cronin says the inn went through this issue with Grill 93, and was unsuccessful. Currently an appealed land court case involving Tague and Grill 93 awaits a decision he says will mean very little because the restaurant has since been bought by the Chateau. Cronin says the Tague is willing to proceed with the same legal steps if negotiations between it and the Chateau aren't fruitful.

"All Tague wants is an agreement to the nature of the sign and what's going to be on the sign," says Cronin. "What we've been trying to do is set up a meeting for that purpose."

According to Cronin, it was the Tague's hope to talk about the sign and what it would look like before the Chateau went before the zoning board to ask for permission to change the signs that read "Grill 93."

Permission was granted by the zoning board for the new signs, but the Chateau will not be allowed to have an LED sign, something it had hoped for.

Cronin could not specify what an ideal Chateau sign would look like, but said the size of the sign could be an issue.

Lou Katz, lawyer for the Chateau, says he believes it may not be the signs for the new restaurant with which the Tague has an issue, but he would not comment further. He says the Chateau has no plans for participating in discussions with Tague about its signs.

"There really is no negotiation," says Katz. "I don't think they have any interest in the sign."

The Tague Inn says that because it owns the land around the sign for both the Tague Inn and the Chateau Restaurant - the establishment that is replacing the Grill 93 - the Tague Inn should have some control over the sign itself.

SAVE Andover's Historic Homes

Captain Stephen Abbot House, circa 1825 Relocated to 378 Main Street and Preserved

Article #29

• APRIL TOWN MEETING •

A chance to shape town living, homes

TOWN MEETING – THE MOST DIRECT form of democracy – will be available to all residents beginning Monday at Andover High School.

In this difficult economic year, most eyes have been on the budget, with particular attention paid to where the heaviest cuts will be felt. Andover schools will feel the effects, with Andover High students, for instance, guaranteed to spend much more time in study halls – as opposed to active classrooms – than they have in previous years. The Strategic Planning Task Force is encouraged to continue its difficult work, to prioritize town spending and thus limit such unwanted results. Town officials will also make important decisions with each new contact they negotiate.

But perhaps more than anything, this year's Town Meeting is about the types of homes Andover residents want to see, and the type of approach Andover residents want to take toward affordable housing.

Residents will decide if the articles at Town Meeting provide the more inexpensive types of housing Andover has been lacking to help elderly remain in town and Andover natives to return, or if the articles are too damaging to neighborhoods to be approved.

Whatever image people have of Andover's future, they can help shape it by voting at Town Meeting. With between 1,000 and 2,000 people usually in attendance, every vote will carry substantial weight in forming the future of Andover – and the types of homes and neighborhoods available for townspeople.

Web question

Why will you go to Town Meeting?

Last week's Townsmen Web-site question was:

Selectmen voted to recommend disapproval of Town Meeting warrant Article 41, a private article submitted by PAZ. How do you feel about Article 41?

77 people voted.
• 61, or 79 percent, said "I am for the article. The 115-unit housing development would be inappropriate."
• 7, or 9 percent, said "The intentions of Town Meeting voters were to provide service to the nuns of St. Clare on River Road. Now that Avalon Bay is looking to cash in on the deal, I am glad voters will have the chance to vote on this issue."
• 2, or 3 percent, said "Even though I am not happy with Avalon Bay, I do not want to see more tax money go to legal fees. It is not a battle worth fighting, and it is one we probably would not win."

• 7, or 9 percent, said "I see nothing wrong with the Avalon Bay development coming to Andover. More than 100 new families will get the chance to live in this town. This issue is that people do not like change."

This week's Web question:

If you are attending Town Meeting which warrant article will move you to go?

• Article 4, the budget.
• Article 41 submitted by PAZ, which aims to stop the Avalon Bay project.
• Article 20 to see if the town is going to pay $4,480,000 to improve our water.
• Article 45 which would open up the restrictions around building accessory dwelling units.
• I go every year and never for just a single issue.

Town should fight to maintain its zoning laws

Editor, Townsmen:

One of the greatest assets Andover has is its carefully planned and well thought out zoning structure. It is this zoning that helps clearly define the different areas such as single-family-home neighborhoods, multi-family developments or commercial and industrial zones. It is this zoning that helps define the look of a town and is one of Andover's important strengths.

The conversion of a single-family home into condominiums in a single-family neighborhood is in defiance of these zoning laws.

Residents should know that the town is currently defending its zoning laws against such a project on Lowell Street. The project has been denied by the Andover Zoning Board of Appeals, and has been appealed to the Housing Appeals Committee (HAC). HAC has the ability to override the town and allow the project to be completed regardless of local zoning.

The town realizes that if it does not defend its zoning laws, it will send a clear message to other developers wanting to profit from the conversion of a single-family lot into a multi-family complex. We urge residents to contact Andover's selectmen, planning department and the Zoning Board of Appeals, and voice their support of the town's position against the project at 274 Lowell St. After everything is said and done, what is at risk here is the integrity of the zoning laws of Andover. The property next door could be the next condo development.

Support for top officials

Budget process fair, balances school and town services

Editor, Townsmen:

I have had the opportunity to work with both Town Manager Buzz Stapczynski and School Superintendent Claudia Bach on many occasions in relation to budget issues and I have always observed them to be working in ways that are cooperative and collaborative.

As library director, I have been part of the budget setting process and have attended a number of the Town's Strategic Planning Task Force meetings. Bach and Stapczynski participate in these meetings along with Ray Hender, Tina Gird-wood, Joanne Marden and representative members of the boards, committees and department heads to develop a budget to present to Town Meeting that supports basic school and town services while still being in balance.

The issues are not easy to address and the discussions are always frank, but communication, civility, and a sense of shared responsibility always prevail.

Memorial Hall Library has had to absorb its share of budget cuts in next year's budget. As painful as these cuts will be for the library's patrons and staff, my observation is that the process has been fair.

The surest way to continue to meet the challenges of providing an excellent school system and basic town services is through the continuing cooperation and collaboration of our public officials. Fortunately, the town of Andover has concerned and informed voters and a leadership committed to meeting these challenges.

Redirect spending

Eliminating perks, such as cars, will help education

Editor, Townsmen:

Our town, like every other, is faced with difficult fiscal decisions. Apparently, a decision has been made to cut 35 employees from our schools next year, including 20 teachers. We take no pleasure in this, but we know we must do something to balance our books.

We know that when the economy improves we can gradually rebuild the educational programs that are being gutted by this crisis, so we take some comfort in the thought that this is a temporary setback to the quality of our schools. This setback may last only a few years, but it is truly temporary for the 6,000 young citizens who are currently enrolled? As a parent of two of those citizens, I am deeply concerned.

We need only think of our own childhood to remember an education does not follow a single, predetermined path. Children learn in many different ways. While some sort out the complexities of this world through mathematics, others do so on the soccer field. Some build their self-esteem while learning an etude on the flute, others while writing an essay. These cuts will continue to increase class sizes and devastate many programs (the performing arts departments alone will suffer a dramatic 50-percent loss to personnel and programs over these two years), and will ultimately mean that we are able to reach fewer and fewer students. This loss will not be temporary for them. By the time the economy recovers and these programs are rebuilt, many students will have already graduated. They will be competing for college admission and employment based on the quality (or lack thereof) of the education received in our school system.

Our students will not be the only ones affected. Any local real-estate broker will say reputation of our school system is one of the main reasons that this town enjoys such high real-estate valuations. That reputation is in jeopardy.

Further, how can we as a community justify reducing our commitment to our children while continuing to offer six-figure salaries and free pickup trucks (with insurance, maintenance and even gasoline) for many town employees? Surely these employees are honest, hard-working people, but our state is currently facing substantial unemployment, so why must we offer such luxurious compensation packages to secure their service? These employees are being granted immunity from our budget crisis while our children's education is pumped into their gas tanks. Eliminating these perks will not fix our entire budget problem, but the price of just one new truck redirected toward education would make a substantial difference.

Give tax break to Andover schools

Editor, Townsmen:

This year, and likely next, our town and Commonwealth are experiencing the wrenching effects of a systemic budget shortfall. Though there are some who might latch onto the "mismanagement" theme as the cause, our local problems are clearly the effect of an absence of tax revenue. The problem is not an Andover problem. It is not even just a Massachusetts problem. The reason for the loss of revenue is no mystery.

During the later Weld and the Celluci years, taxes were cut to reflect the increases in revenue during the fat years of the mid to late '90s - when we had an administration in Washington that knew how to run an economy. Thus, instead of paying state income taxes at the rate of 5.85 percent, they were cut to eventually go to 5 percent. Because the economy stalled, legislators stayed the final stage of this cut, so that instead of being 5 percent, it is still 5.3 percent.

Cutting taxes in good times implies that when further revenue is needed, they are raised. We now have a governor who buys the old Ronald Reagan theme that raising taxes always smoothes the economy. That is part of the ideology which is starving our schools and destroying our infrastructure. It is clear that had the taxes not been cut in the '90s, we would not be facing the dire shortfalls we have this year.

My purpose in writing is not just to whine about the foolishness of our leaders and of ourselves. I propose that those of us who agree the state income tax should never have been cut from the 5.85 rate, pay the old amount. There is even a specific place on the state tax form for doing so.

However, I will not be sending my check to a governor whose priorities I do not trust. I prefer to underwrite the well established work of our school system, which uses its resources well and which is well led by a widely respected superintendent.

I know that many, if not most, residents of Andover feel as I do, that the school system has served our children and our neighbors' children well. I am paid to read the equivalent of 50 staff members will laid off, essential curriculum cannot be maintained, and class sizes will grow. I must respond. I am paying 5.85 percent of my taxable state income, since I believe that is what the state actually should be taxing me, and other citizens. I am sending my .55 percent check to supplement what I pay for the state, to the Andover schools. I cannot watch the debacle in the schools without responding.

This is a plea to the others in town, those able and willing to join me, to do the same. Direct your checks for .55 of your income to the Andover schools. I acknowledge this is not the way to support the schools. The public schools are not a charity. They are a public responsibility. But for this one year, let us stay the damage.

Responding to Gerry Gustus

Top officials work together; Gustus didn't get it

Editor, Townsmen:

It is hard to say exactly what the screed in last week's Townsmen by former School Committee member Gerry Gustus was. While it appeared on the letters page, it could not have been that, as the 980-word exposition of Gustus' theory on the budget crisis was twice the stated policy length of the Townsmen for letters to the editor, was not signed, and was accompanied by a picture of the author. Perhaps it was a guest column.

Could we hope that Gustus might now be a regular contributor to the paper, enlightening us as to the causes of all of our problems?

Whatever we can call Gustus' his contribution, tactful, fair-minded and objective we cannot. He recently finished third in a five-way race for two School Committee seats, thus being unseated after one term. Less than one month after that disappointment, he now tells us the following:

"...the town manager and the superintendent do not like each other and do not work together."

"There is 'incredible mismanagement of the health insurance premiums by the town manager.'"

"The town manager engages in 'gamesmanship' to 'pursue the town-side interests single-mindedly.'"

"The town manager 'has virtually no involvement with the schools at all.'"

"Collaboration between Stapczynski and Bach...never

"Our professional leadership is dysfunctional."

"Four of the five members do not 'know or understand why (they are) on the board.'"

"The members of the School Committee, with the exception of Dick Collins, are involved 'in a desperate effort to present the veil of 'working collaboratively' for 'what's best for Andover.'"

We're fortunate Gustus will be jeering from the sidelines.

"The School Department is 'shouldering the burden of the entire town's financial crisis because two people (Bach and Stapczynski) will not work together.'"

"Finally '...our two leaders... have failed us by their unwillingness to put aside their petty differences.'"

I hardly know where to begin. Let me first of all say that over the past two years I have been a member of the School Building Committee for the new High Plain and Wood Hill Schools. I have served at the pleasure of the town manager, on a committee with six other members, including the current chair of the School Committee and the superintendent of schools. I have also frequently attended meetings of the School Committee, the selectmen and the Strategic Planning Task Force during this time. I have seen Bach and Stapczynski work together frequently. While they represent different constituencies in their professional roles, they both represent them well. I have lived in Andover for 22 years, and I have never seen a time when there was not some inherent conflict between "town" and "school." While the conflict exists, it is apparent that the parties currently involved in planning for these difficult times are making every attempt to work together as far as their differing responsibilities allow them.

Gustus absolutely refused to see the handwriting on the wall, as most clearly evidenced by his attempt to increase the School Department budget by $1.5 million the week before he lost at the polls. He still apparently holds that position, claiming in his letter that "there is money in the town budget that could be allocated to the schools." Even the chairwoman of the School Committee, Tina Girdwood, admitted after the Strategic Planning Task Force meeting right after the election, that the $1 million increase she was hoping for had vanished.

We are facing difficult times. Perhaps we are fortunate that Gustus will be jeering from the sidelines as our "new, unknowledgeable, ... lost their way" School Committee attempts to work with the rest of the town to guide us.

Tom Deso
81 High St.

How can school decision-maker criticize schools now?

Editor, Townsmen:

If the topic of Gerry Gustus' letter to the editor (Townsmen, April 17) wasn't so serious, the irony in his message would have been amusing.

Gustus believes the school system has been managed poorly, the superintendent does not communicate well, and the newly elected School Committee will not be able to deal with the present situation.

But for the last three years, Gustus has been responsible for how the Andover schools were run. Our present situation is the result of his leadership. As a School Committeeman, he had the authority to significantly change school policy, to remove the superintendent if she didn't perform well and to bring important issues to the attention of the Andover voters. Gustus did none of these things. He often acted in ways that directly contradicted what he stated in his letter. For example, the School Committee formally recognized Superintendent Claudia Bach for her excellent performance, yet his letter attacks her performance. He can't have it both ways.

Let's look at what Gustus did during his term. He supported two new schools that ballooned the overhead of our school system. He led a politicized redistricting process that created both overcrowded and under-utilized schools. As an added negative result, the redistricting process tripled the number of students in crossover districts. Many children in Andover were better off before the new schools and subsequent redistricting. He supported real-locating the money set aside to open the new schools. Most recently, he attempted to start an internal war between the town and school departments over the budget.

For the past five years (until this year), the school budget grew more quickly than the town side of the budget. Which side of that equation would you like to be on? The former School Committee and the administration chose to ignore their ample but fixed growth rate. They grew staff and programs at a level that was not sustainable given the economy.

This race to spend was fueled by a perception that all Andover taxpayers were corporate CEOs or dot-com millionaires. That perception would have become a self-fulfilling prophecy if the members of the former School Committee had their way. The tax increases required to fund their vision of the school system would have made Andover affordable to only the very wealthy. Remember, the override was defeated by a two to one margin.

In the present recession, many Andover residents have lost their jobs, taken pay cuts, or gone without raises. Up to now, the School Committee and the superintendent did not factor this into their budget calculations.

Three weeks ago, town voters asked Gustus to step aside from the School Committee. He had the opportunity to do so gracefully, but he has now missed that opportunity. He had his 15 minutes of fame, now he should step aside and let others do the job necessary to set our schools straight. Tony James, Art Barber and Chris Smith will use their budget and project-management skills to manage our schools responsibly within the reality of the present fiscal situation.

In these difficult economic times, we must work together. It is simplistic to blame everyone else for our current situation. It is even more ironic when one of the key decision-makers denounces the very decisions he advocated.

A chance to shape town living, homes

TOWN MEETING — THE MOST DIRECT form of democracy — will be available to all residents beginning Monday at Andover High School.

In this difficult economic year, most eyes have been on the budget, with particular attention paid to where the heaviest cuts will be felt. Andover schools will feel the effects, with Andover High students, for instance, guaranteed to spend much more time in study halls — as opposed to active classrooms — than they have in previous years. The Strategic Planning Task Force is encouraged to continue its difficult work, to prioritize town spending and thus limit such unwanted results. Town officials will also make important decisions with each new contact they negotiate.

But perhaps more than anything, this year's Town Meeting is about the types of homes Andover residents want to see, and the type of approach Andover residents want to take toward affordable housing.

Residents will decide if the articles at Town Meeting provide the more inexpensive types of housing Andover has been lacking to help elderly remain in town and Andover natives to return, or if the articles are too damaging to neighborhoods to be approved.

Whatever image people have of Andover's future, they can help shape it by voting at Town Meeting. With between 1,000 and 2,000 people usually in attendance, every vote will carry substantial weight in forming the future of Andover — and the types of homes and neighborhoods available for townspeople.

Web question

Why will you go to Town Meeting?

Last week's Townsmen Web-site question was:

Selectmen voted to recommend disapproval of Town Meeting warrant Article 41, a private article submitted by PAZ. How do you feel about Article 41?

77 people voted.

• 61, or 79 percent, said "I am for the article. The 115-unit housing development would be inappropriate."

• 7, or 9 percent, said "The intentions of Town Meeting voters were to provide service to the nuns of St. Clare on River Road. Now that Avalon Bay is looking to cash in on the deal, I am glad voters will have the chance to vote on this issue."

• 2, or 3 percent, said "Even though I am not happy with Avalon Bay, I do not want to see more tax money go to legal fees. It is not a battle worth fighting, and it is one we probably would not win."

• 7, or 9 percent, said "I see nothing wrong with the Avalon Bay development coming to Andover. More than 100 new families will get the chance to live in this town. This issue is that people do not like change."

This week's Web question:

If you are attending Town Meeting which warrant article will move you to go?

• Article 4, the budget.
• Article 41 submitted by PAZ, which aims to stop the Avalon Bay project.

• Article 20 to see if the town is going to pay $4,480,000 to improve our water.

• Article 45 which would open up the restrictions around building accessory dwelling units.

• I go every year and never for just a single issue.

Town should fight to maintain its zoning laws

Editor, Townsman:

One of the greatest assets Andover has is its carefully planned and well thought out zoning structure. It is this zoning that helps clearly define the different areas such as single-family-home neighborhoods, multi-family developments or commercial and industrial zones. It is this zoning that helps define the look of a town and is one of Andover's important strengths.

The conversion of a single-family home into condominiums in a single-family neighborhood is in defiance of these zoning laws.

Residents should know that the town is currently defending its zoning laws against such a project on Lowell Street. The project has been denied by the Andover Zoning Board of Appeals, and has been appealed to the Housing Appeals Committee (HAC). HAC has the ability to override the town and allow the project to be completed regardless of local zoning.

The town realizes that if it does not defend its zoning laws, it will send a clear message to other developers wanting to profit from the conversion of a single-family lot into a multi-family complex. We urge residents to contact Andover's selectmen, planning department and the Zoning Board of Appeals, and voice their support of the town's position against the project at 274 Lowell St. After everything is said and done, what is at risk here is the integrity of the zoning laws of Andover. The property next door could be the next condo development.

Support for top officials

Budget process fair, balances school and town services

Editor, Townsman:

I have had the opportunity to work with both Town Manager Buzz Stapczynski and School Superintendent Claudia Bach on many occasions in relation to budget issues and I have always observed them to be working in ways that are cooperative and collaborative.

As library director, I have been part of the budget setting process and have attended a number of the Town's Strategic Planning Task Force meetings. Bach and Stapczynski participate in these meetings along with Ray Hender, Tina Gird-wood, Joanne Marden and representative members of the boards, committees and department heads to develop a budget to present to Town Meeting that supports basic school and town services while still being in balance.

The issues are not easy to address and the discussions are always frank, but communication, civility, and a sense of shared responsibility always prevail.

Memorial Hall Library has had to absorb its share of budget cuts in next year's budget. As painful as these cuts will be for the library's patrons and staff, my observation is that the process has been fair.

The surest way to continue to meet the challenges of providing an excellent school system and basic town services is through the continuing cooperation and collaboration of our public officials. Fortunately, the town of Andover has concerned and informed voters and a leadership committed to meeting these challenges.

Redirect spending

Eliminating perks, such as cars, will help education

Editor, Townsman:

Our town, like every other, is faced with difficult fiscal decisions. Apparently, a decision has been made to cut 35 employees from our schools next year, including 20 teachers. We take no pleasure in this, but we know we must do something to balance our books.

We know that when the economy improves we can gradually rebuild the educational programs that are being gutted by this crisis, so we take some comfort in the thought that this is a temporary setback to the quality of our schools. This setback may last only a few years, but it is truly temporary for the 6,000 young citizens who are currently enrolled? As a parent of two of those citizens, I am deeply concerned.

We need only think of our own childhood to remember an education does not follow a single, predetermined path. Children learn in many different ways. While some sort out the complexities of this world through mathematics, others do so on the soccer field. Some build their self-esteem while learning an etude on the flute, others while writing an essay. These cuts will continue to increase class sizes and devastate many programs (the performing arts departments alone will suffer a dramatic 50-percent loss to personnel and programs over these two years), and will ultimately mean that we are able to reach fewer and fewer students. This loss will not be temporary for them. By the time the economy recovers and these programs are rebuilt, many students will have already graduated. They will be competing for college admission and employment based on the quality (or lack thereof) of the education received in our school system.

Our students will not be the only ones affected. Any local real-estate broker will say reputation of our school system is one of the main reasons that this town enjoys such high real-estate valuations. That reputation is in jeopardy.

Further, how can we as a community justify reducing our commitment to our children while continuing to offer six-figure salaries and free pickup trucks (with insurance, maintenance and even gasoline) for many town employees? Surely these employees are honest, hard-working people, but our state is currently facing substantial unemployment, so why must we offer such luxurious compensation packages to secure their service? These employees are being granted immunity from our budget crisis while our children's education is pumped into their gas tanks. Eliminating these perks will not fix our entire budget problem, but the price of just one new truck redirected toward education would make a substantial difference.

Give tax break to Andover schools

Editor, Townsmen:

This year, and likely next, our town and Commonwealth are experiencing the wrenching effects of a systemic budget shortfall. Though there are some who might latch onto the "mismanagement" theme as the cause, our local problems are clearly the effect of an absence of tax revenue. The problem is not an Andover problem. It is not even just a Massachusetts problem. The reason for the loss of revenue is no mystery.

During the later Weld and the Cellucci years, taxes were cut to reflect the increases in revenue during the fat years of the mid to late '90s - when we had an administration in Washington that knew how to run an economy. Thus, instead of paying state income taxes at the rate of 5.85 percent, they were cut to eventually go to 5 percent. Because the economy stalled, legislators stayed the final stage of this cut, so that instead of being 5 percent, it is still 5.3 percent.

Cutting taxes in good times implies that when further revenue is needed, they are raised. We now have a governor who buys the old Ronald Reagan theme that raising taxes always smothers the economy. That is part of the ideology which is starving our schools and destroying our infrastructure. It is clear that had the taxes not been cut in the '90s, we would not be facing the dire shortfalls we have this year.

My purpose in writing is not just to whine about the foolishness of our leaders and of ourselves. I propose that those of us who agree the state income tax should never have been cut from the 5.85 rate, pay the old amount. There is even a specific place on the state tax form for doing so.

However, I will not be sending my check to a governor whose priorities I do not trust. I prefer to underwrite the well established work of our school system, which uses its resources well and which is well led by a widely respected superintendent.

I know that many, if not most, residents of Andover feel as I do, that the school system has served our children and our neighbors' children well. I am pained to read the equivalent of 50 staff members will be laid off, essential curriculum cannot be maintained, and class sizes will grow. I must respond. I am paying 5.85 percent of my taxable state income, since I believe that is what the state actually should be taxing me, and other citizens. I am sending my .55 percent check to supplement what I pay for the state, to the Andover schools. I cannot watch the debacle in the schools without responding.

This is a plea to the others in town, those able and willing to join me, to do the same. Direct your checks for .55 of your income to the Andover schools. I acknowledge this is not the way to support the schools. The public schools are not a charity. They are a public responsibility. But for this one year, let us stay the damage.

Responding to Gerry Gustus

Top officials work together; Gustus didn't get it

Editor, Townsmen:

It is hard to say exactly what the screed in last week's Townsmen by former School Committee member Gerry Gustus was. While it appeared on the letters page, it could not have been that, as the 980-word exposition of Gustus' theory on the budget crisis was twice the stated policy length of the Townsmen for letters to the editor, was not signed, and was accompanied by a picture of a guest column.

Could we hope that Gustus might now be a regular contributor to the paper, enlightening us as to the causes of all of our problems?

Whatever we can call Gustus' his contribution, tactful, fair-minded and objective we cannot. He recently finished third in a five-way race for two School Committee seats, thus being unseated after one term. Less than one month after that disappointment, he now tells us the following:

• "...the town manager and the superintendent do not like each other and do not work together."

• There is "incredible mismanagement of the health insurance premiums by the town manager."

• The town manager engages in "gamesmanship" to "pursue the town-side interests single-mindedly."

• The town manager "has virtually no involvement with the schools at all."

• "Collaboration between Stapczynski and Bach...never happens."

• "Our professional leadership is dysfunctional."

• Four of the five members do not "know or understand why (they are) on the board."

• The members of the School Committee, with the exception of Dick Collins, are involved "in a desperate effort to present the veil of 'working collaboratively' for 'what's best for Andover.'"

We're fortunate Gustus will be jeering from the sidelines.

• The School Department is "shouldering the burden of the entire town's financial crisis because two people (Bach and Stapczynski) will not work together."

• Finally "...our two leaders... have failed us by their unwillingness to put aside their petty differences."

I hardly know where to begin. Let me first of all say that over the past two years I have been a member of the School Building Committee for the new High Plain and Wood Hill Schools. I have served at the pleasure of the town manager, on a committee with six other members, including the current chair of the School Committee and the superintendent of schools. I have also frequently attended meetings of the School Committee, the selectmen and the Strategic Planning Task Force during this time. I have seen Bach and Stapczynski work together frequently. While they represent different constituencies in their professional roles, they both represent them well. I have lived in Andover for 22 years, and I have never seen a time when there was not some inherent conflict between "town" and "school." While the conflict exists, it is apparent that the parties currently involved in planning for these difficult times are making every attempt to work together as far as their differing responsibilities allow them.

Gustus absolutely refused to see the handwriting on the wall, as most clearly evidenced by his attempt to increase the School Department budget by $1.5 million the week before he lost at the polls. He still apparently holds that position, claiming in his letter that "there is money in the town budget that could be allocated to the schools." Even the chairwoman of the School Committee, Tina Girdwood, admitted after the Strategic Planning Task Force meeting right after the election, that the $1 million increase she was hoping for had vanished.

We are facing difficult times. Perhaps we are fortunate that Gustus will be jeering from the sidelines as our "new, unknowledgeable, ... lost their way" School Committee attempts to work with the rest of the town to guide us.

Tom Deso
81 High St.

How can school decision-maker criticize schools now?

Editor, Townsmen:

If the topic of Gerry Gustus' letter to the editor (Townsmen, April 17) wasn't so serious, the irony in his message would have been amusing.

Gustus believes the school system has been managed poorly, the superintendent does not communicate well, and the newly elected School Committee will not be able to deal with the present situation.

But for the last three years, Gustus has been responsible for how the Andover schools were run. Our present situation is the result of his leadership. As a School Committeeman, he had the authority to significantly change school policy, to remove the superintendent if she didn't perform well and to bring important issues to the attention of the Andover voters. Gustus did none of these things. He often acted in ways that directly contradicted what he stated in his letter. For example, the School Committee formally recognized Superintendent Claudia Bach for her excellent performance, yet his letter attacks her performance. He can't have it both ways.

Let's look at what Gustus did during his term. He supported two new schools that ballooned the overhead of our school system. He led a politicized redistricting process that created both overcrowded and under-utilized schools. As an added negative result, the redistricting process tripled the number of students in crossover districts. Many children in Andover were better off before the new schools and subsequent redistricting. He supported real-locating the money set aside to open the new schools. Most recently, he attempted to start an internal war between the town and school departments over the budget.

For the past five years (until this year), the school budget grew more quickly than the town side of the budget. Which side of that equation would you like to be on? The former School Committee and the administration chose to ignore their ample but fixed growth rate. They grew staff and programs at a level that was not sustainable given the economy.

This race to spend was fueled by a perception that all Andover taxpayers were corporate CEOs or dot-com millionaires. That perception would have become a self-fulfilling prophecy if the members of the former School Committee had their way. The tax increases required to fund their vision of the school system would have made Andover affordable to only the very wealthy. Remember, the override was defeated by a two to one margin.

In the present recession, many Andover residents have lost their jobs, taken pay cuts, or gone without raises. Up to now, the School Committee and the superintendent did not factor this into their budget calculations.

Three weeks ago, town voters asked Gustus to step aside from the School Committee. He had the opportunity to do so gracefully, but he has now missed that opportunity. He had his 15 minutes of fame, now he should step aside and let others do the job necessary to set our schools straight. Tony James, Art Barber and Chris Smith will use their budget and project-management skills to manage our schools responsibly within the reality of the present fiscal situation.

In these difficult economic times, we must work together. It is simplistic to blame everyone else for our current situation. It is even more ironic when one of the key decision-makers denounces the very decisions he advocated.

Multigenerational strings - Indian violinist Lalgudi Jayaraman (center) will lead a violin trio with son, G.J.R. Krishnan, and daughter, Lalgudi Vijayalakshmi, at the Rogers Center. The performance this Saturday, April 26 will in part benefit the Chinmaya building effort in Andover.

Inspired rhythms coming to the Rogers Center

By Ben Hellman

INDIAN VIOLINIST Lalgudi Jayaraman is credited with revolutionizing South Indian, or Carnatic music. Local Indian residents compare him in stature to sitarist Ravi Shankar, who became famous in the US by his association with the Beatles.

This Saturday, April 26 at 5:30 p.m., Jayaraman, 73, will lead a violin trio with son, G.J.R. Krishnan, and daughter, Lalgudi Vijayalakshmi, at the Rogers Center at Merrimack College. His stop to Andover and the Boston area is a first and will in part benefit the Chinmaya Mission's construction effort in Andover. [See related story, page 18.]

Jayaraman, Krishnan and Vijayalakshmi stayed in the home of Andover music-teacher Durga Krishnan and talked about Carnatic music, the upcoming performance and what it was like to belong to a multigenerational music family.

Jayaraman says he always knew he would become a musician. Growing up the child of musicians his house was always full of music - and musicians.

"There was a continuous stream of musicians, disciples and music-lovers at home," he said.

The Jayaramans have been musicians for generations. Jayaraman's children are fifth-generation musicians. His great grandfather was a disciple of Thyagaraja, one of South India's great composers. Jayaraman began studying violin at the age of 7 and gave his first concert at 12. Asked if his was a pressure upon him as a child he said no, but that it was a great responsibility.

Krishnan and Vijayalakshmi are also both solo performers.

What to expect...

► Lights up! The lights usually do not go down on an Indian concert audience. This is because the audience is considered an integral part of the experience.

► The raga-alapana, or unfolding of the song, occurs before the composition starts. It is highly improvisational. Musicians play and answer one another musically, introducing the audience to the song before starting. "It's a kind of dialogue," said Vijayalakshmi.

► Drums. Drums signal the opening of a song. Drums are considered accompaniment to the musicians. The trio will be accompanied by a mridangam, a long double-ended drum and a ghatam, a clay pot held against the belly when played.

► Unison playing. Another sign that the song has started will be the three performers playing in unison, or all playing the same notes at once.

► Drum solo. At some point during the performance there will be a drum solo. There will be intricate rhythms of more than 100 beats. The drummer must "land" back with the musicians, said Jayaraman.

► Clap and sway. Indian audiences enjoy keeping time with the intricate rhythms of the music. They may clap, tap their shoes and count beats with their fingers. Some may hum along and sway in their seats.

► No intermission. A break in the performance would break the mood and bond between the audience and performers. For this reason, Indian concerts run without intermissions. There are breaks between songs for the performers to introduce the next selection.

Art at the Addison: Another sure sign of spring

THE ADDISON GALLERY OF American Art at Phillips Academy announced its Spring Exhibition is underway.

Tomorrow, Friday, April 25, from 5:30 to 7:30 p.m., the Addison will host an opening reception for spring exhibitions.

Here are some of the exhibition highlights:

THROUGH JULY 31
RICHARD STANKIEWICZ'S welded sculpture, made of rusted iron and castoff steel, played an important part in redefining art in New York of the 1950s, a heady decade when the New York School came to international prominence. Yet the full range of Stankiewicz's art has never been seen in a major retrospective exhibition. This exhibition of 45 works from the 1950s to the 1970s was co-curated by Emmie Donadio, associate director, Middlebury College Museum of Art, and Adam D. Weinberg.

Art Dialogue

Sunday, May 11, 2 p.m. Dialogue with exhibition curator, Emmie Donadio and Addison director, Adam D. Weinberg.

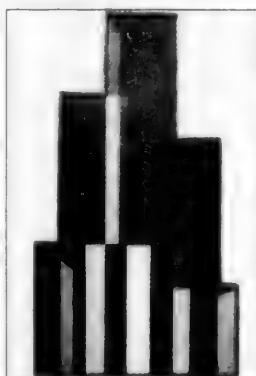

The Park Avenue Cubists: Gallatin, Morris, Frelinghuysen and Shaw

THIS EXHIBITION, curated by Debra Bricker Balken, focuses on the work of Albert Eugene Gallatin, George L.K. Morris, Suzy Frelinghuysen, and Charles B. Shaw. Known as "The Park Avenue Cubists," a nickname that highlighted their affluent backgrounds, the four championed modernist abstraction in the 1930s and 1940s at a time when realist, figurative painting was dominating the American art scene. In their work, they melded European cubism with indigenous American subject matter in ways that looked back to the work of analytic cubists and forward to the work of artists such as Stuart Davis and Andy Warhol.

Gallery Talk

Sunday, May 4, 2 p.m. Gallery Talk led by exhibition curator Debra Bricker Balken.

Jim Hodges: colorsound THROUGH JULY 31

AS THIS SPRING'S Edward E. Elson artist-in-residence, Jim Hodges has worked with over a hundred students from Phillips Academy and neighboring schools to create a musical installation and "performance" that explores our associations among color, sound, memory and personal history.

The exhibition includes a selection of works that represent the artist's recent experiments with music in addition to a newly-created site-specific wall drawing composed of hundreds of colors, and a recorded musical piece.

Serving as the "score," the multi-colored mural leads visitors down the museum's main corridor and into a gallery where they can experience and participate in a performance of sound and color created by the artist his collaborators.

INDIAN MUSIC

Carnatic Music

Indian music is an oral tradition and wasn't put down on paper until 200 years ago, says Jayaraman. He has dedicated as much of his life studying and preserving Carnatic music as playing and writing it.

Improvisation is central to the Indian music art form. Durga Krishnan says that a song may be different every time the musician plays it. She says that "heart and soul" are the real element to Indian music and an artist's ability to improvise is what separates the great from the mediocre.

Saturday's entire concert will be improvisation within a structure, "decorating the bone structure" said Krishnan. She says that Indian performers must be excellent mathematicians to keep up with the rhythms. As for help from sheet music, there won't be any.

"You won't see an (Indian musician) using sheet music. There's no such thing. Sheet music would be frowned upon," she said.

General admission tickets for the event are $35 and $15.

Reserved seating prices are $100 (includes an after-concert dinner with the artists) and $50. Tickets benefit the construction of the Hindu Cultural Center. They can be purchased online at: www.sulekha.com/boston. Check www.chinmayamaruti.org for details.

Waiting for tranquility, with completion of the Chinmaya Mission

By Ben Hellman

In the spare bedroom of Dwarka Dwarakanath, Lord Hanuman gazes serenely at his master, Sri Rama. Hanuman is a three-foot tall statue of an Indian god. He is also a monkey. In keeping with tradition, he faces a picture of Rama, whom he serves devotedly.

The idol was carved from a single piece of white marble with pastel coloring. The statue looks more like porcelain than marble, it is so delicately painted.

Hanuman is biding time at Dwarakanath's home until his true home — the Chinmaya Mission, a Hindu cultural center on North Main Street, is completed. Then he will take his rightful place in a shrine facing the east, and Indian-Americans from Andover and beyond will come to see and touch him, to gain tranquility and to pray.

Dwarakanath sat cross-legged before the idol and spoke proudly about the compliments it has garnered from Indian visitors. Hanuman's wide eyes inspire viewers with a sense of well-being, he said. Dwarakanath, Andover resident and president of the Chinmaya Mission of Boston, says that admirers have told him it is the most beautiful representation of Hanuman they have seen. He says that this is a special compliment. "It's hard to make a monkey beautiful," he said.

The center — which is expected to open in June — was originally planned to be a two-story structure with great domes, but plans were simplified after September 11, 2001 and the economic slowdown. Dwarakanath says that the center's original plans will be completed at some time in the future.

Hanuman

Hanuman is a popular Indian deity. His mother, Anjana, was cursed to live as a female monkey until she gave birth to an incarnation of Lord Shiva, one of the great gods in the Hindu pantheon.

So Hanuman took the form of a monkey. His main characteristics are humility and devotion to his Lord Rama, but it was not always so. His immortal blood endowed him with super powers. He can fly, change his size and has great strength. "He is like superman to Indian children," said Dwarakanath.

When Hanuman was an infant, he thought the sun was a piece of fruit and tried to eat it. Rahu, the only god allowed to control the sun, complained to Indra, the king of gods, who struck with a lightning bolt, breaking his jaw and making him forget his immortal powers. Hanuman then grew up thinking he was just a monkey. Hanuman means "broken jaw."

Hanuman has been portrayed in different styles, many more appealing than the Andover idol. A children's book called Hanuman, by Erik Jendresen and Joshua Greene, based on Sanskrit epics, shows him flying like a comic book hero over great sea monsters.

tion and tune their instruments. Saturday's concert is expected to run three hours, which is not long by Indian standards.

Andover-India connection

An Andoverite was the first non-Indian to be recognized as a singer of Carnatic music. The late Jon B. Higgins, a former resident and Phillips Academy student, studied Indian music at Wesleyan University and studied in India on a Fulbright Scholarship.

Higgins died in a car accident in 1984, but recorded several Carnatic albums and was a known name in the Indian music world.

Jayaraman had met Higgins and said he enjoyed his singing.

Maracle assigned to Fort Hood

Timothy E. Maracle has been assigned to Fort Hood, Texas as chaplain of the 2nd battalion of the 8th Cavalry.

Maracle, who grew up in Andover, went to West Elementary School, West Junior High and Andover High. While in high school, he played on the varsity soccer team and also the volleyball team. After graduation from high school in 1992, he went to Northeastern for one year and then Valley Forge Christian College, in Pennsylvania, where he received his bachelor of science degree.

He then came back to Andover and continued his learning at Gordon Conwell College in Wenham, where he received a master's degree in divinity. While attending Gordon Conwell he became the youth pastor at Riverside Assembly of God in Methuen, where he stayed for three years. Maracle has been licensed and ordained through the Assemblies of God national office in Springfield, Mo. Maracle entered the Army reserves while at Gordon Conwell and did his basic training at Fort Jackson in North Carolina.

He lives in Texas with his wife, Heidi and baby daughter Abigail.

Local man promoted to lieutenant colonel

Michael S. Higginbottom, a graduate of Methuen High School (class of 1982) and the United States Military Academy at West Point (class of 1986), has recently been promoted to lieutenant colonel.

Higginbottom has been stationed in Germany for the last four years. For two years he served with the Nato Command in Bosnia, Poland and Kosovo. For the last two years he has served with the 7th Army Command, where he has been involved in the military training of troops as task force operations observer/controller at the Maneuver Training Center in Germany. Many of these troops are now serving in Iraq. He served in Operation Desert Storm in Iraq in 1990 and 1991. Higginbottom has been chosen for an armored tactical command and is awaiting deployment to his new assignment.

The son of Paul R. and Lorraine L. Higginbottom of Andover, formerly of Methuen, Michael Higginbottom has two brothers, Edvard and Mark, who served on the Methuen Police Department for many years and are now on the Andover Police Department. Higginbottom is married to Catherine Rossbach, formerly of Andover. They have two sons, Patrick and Brendan.

Suffolk Law pays tribute to 'an esteemed legal personality'

Fenton made his mark in the classroom and on the bench

GENERATIONS OF LAW students count the Hon. John E. Fenton Jr. among their favorite professors, and Judge Fenton, in turn, seems to remember all of his Suffolk University Law School students.

In appreciation of his 45-year legacy of teaching and leadership, the law school will honor the Andover resident at a tribute dinner Wednesday, April 30 at the Westin Hotel, Copley Place.

As a professor of law and dean of the law school, Fenton "influenced the lives of thousands of lawyers and continues to groom students for the practice of law," according to a Suffolk spokesperson. "His Evidence courses are consistently oversubscribed given his reputation for teaching excellence."

Fenton began teaching at Suffolk Law in 1957 and continued while serving in the Massachusetts judiciary. He became dean of the law school in 1994 and was a driving force in bringing Suffolk University Law School to the forefront of educational technology.

Under his leadership, the law school planned and built a new educational facility on 120 Tremont St., which set a precedent for incorporating technology into legal education in the 21st century.

In 1974, Fenton was appointed to the land court and became chief justice of that court in 1990.

He served as chief justice for administration and management of the Massachusetts trial court from 1992 to 1994.

After he left the judiciary, he accepted the position of dean at Suffolk University Law School.

He served as dean until 1999, when he was named distinguished professor of law.

Among his numerous Suffolk Law School honors, Fenton received the Outstanding Faculty Member Award from the Student Bar Association, was the recipient of the first Distinguished Service Award from the Suffolk University Law Review, and received both a Special Recognition Award and a Lifetime Achievement Award from the Suffolk University Law School Alumni Association.

In addition to his academic and professional accomplishments, Fenton is known for his dedication to charitable and social service activities.

He is chairman of the board of the Holy Family Hospital in Methuen and a member of the board of governors of the Caritas Christi Health Care System.

It is Fenton's focus on public service that has shaped the priorities for the April 30 tribute dinner.

The proceeds from this event will go toward the establishment of Fenton Fellowships.

These fellowships will be awarded on a competitive basis to students pursuing careers or internships in public service.

The dinner will be held at the Westin Hotel, Copley Place.

Suffolk University Trustee Gerard F. Doherty and Law School Associate Dean John C. Deliso are co-chairmen of the event.

This year's Holocaust Remembrance Program at Temple Emanuel

Presentation on ethics, morals during Nazi Era

Are there modern ethical lessons we can learn from healthcare practices of the Nazi era? On Monday evening, April 28, Dr. Michael J. Franzblau will discuss the lessons from that historic period - the issues of rationing care, doctor assisted-euthanasia, and the planned spread of disease during wartime - are as relevant today as they were more than 50 years ago, organizers said.

Franzblau will be the keynote speaker of this year's Yom Hashoah or Holocaust Remembrance Program, being held at 7 p.m. at Temple Emanuel, located at 7 Haggetts Pond Road in Andover. In his presentation on "Ethics and Morals during the Nazi Era," Dr. Franzblau will examine the ways in which German physicians were paid to "volunteer" to participate in programs that Hitler hoped would preserve the purity of the German/Aryan people.

Not only did German doctors kill Jewish citizens at concentration camps and use them as "human lab rats" in the name of scientific research, but German doctors also killed inmates at mental institutions and killed children with congenital illnesses. In addition, physicians implemented a government policy of forced sterilization for people with known hereditary diseases, such as epilepsy, schizophrenia, manic-depression, and severe alcoholism.

Dr. Franzblau will explore the relevance of the medical community in the era of Hitler to today, comparing the stresses on the medical communities at both times: rising healthcare costs that have stimulated a discussion on how to best allocate resources in situations in which there exist limited and finite amounts of money.

This affects the elderly, as many believe that restrictions should exist for those over 75 years of age so that resources would be available for those who are younger and more productive.

This also elevates the concern for those who are economically challenged or physically, mentally, emotionally disabled. For American physicians, the need to balance the commitment to one's patients as individuals above all else with the dynamics of the medical systems creates risks for behaviors that could again bring shame to the medical profession.

Dr. Franzblau, who will also be speaking Monday, April 28, at 1:15 p.m. at West Middle School's auditorium, is a clinical professor of dermatology at the University of California School of Medicine in San Francisco. He is also a lecturer in the university's department of History of Health Sciences. His passion and dedication to his research have earned him "The Truth and Justice Award" of the Anti-Defamation League, and the "Louis D. Brandeis Award" of the Zionist Organization of America.

This event is free of charge and open to the public. Following this presentation, a brief memorial service will be held in memory of the six million Jews who died during the Holocaust.

Tikkun Olam Award honoree announced by Merrimack College

Newton resident Steve Grossman will be this year's recipient of the Seventh Tikkun Olam Award presented by Merrimack College's Center for the Study of Jewish-Christian Relations.

The Tikkun Olam Award recognizes outstanding contributions in the realms of politics, religion, economics, culture and philanthropy. The term Tikkun Olam means To Heal the World in Hebrew.

The event will be held at the Boston Park Plaza on Tuesday, April 29.

Presenting the award to Steve Grossman will be Merrimack College President Richard J. Santagati and Rabbi Robert Goldstein, chairman. Remarks will be made by Dr. Leonard Fein. Chairpersons and masters of the ceremony are Alan Solomon and Susan Lewis Solomon. The invocation will be made by Rabbi Andrew Warmflash of Temple Emanuel of Newton.

Armenian Genocide observance at 3 p.m. Sunday, April 27 at West Middle School

Armenians from throughout the Merrimack Valley and Southern New Hampshire will gather for the 88th anniversary of Armenian Martyrs' Day, a commemorative event taking place this Sunday, April 27, at 3 p.m., at West Middle School Auditorium, Shawsheen Road, off Route 133. The event, honoring Armenians who survived the genocidal years of 1915 to 1923, is sponsored by the Armenian Genocide Commemorative Committee of Merrimack Valley. Theme for the observance will be: "They That Sow in Tears Shall Reap in Joy," during which time appropriate tribute will be paid to 30 survivors who escaped the onslaught, led by 103-year-old Yeghshapert Giragosian of North Andover. Each will be presented a token of appreciation by area youth.

The figure represents a drastic decline from

David Alaverdian

Janet Jeghelian

1994 when the area recorded 75 survivors.

Since the committee's inception in 1990, special homage has been paid annually to the 1.5 million Armenians lost at the hands of the Ottoman Turkish government.

During that time, proceeds totaling $25,000 have gone toward assisting charities in the US and abroad.

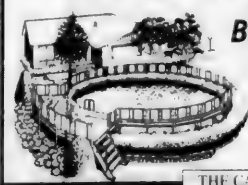

The program will feature teenage piano virtuoso David Alaverdian of New York City, who will perform a selection of Armenian and American pieces relative to the occasion.

Alaverdian is a student at Julliard School of Music, having won a number of prominent competitions and appearing with several noted groups throughout the country. He gained his start as a 9-year-old playing in the subways of New York to help support an immigrant family.

There will be a walkathon this Sunday, April 27 from 10 a.m. to noon at the Andover High School field house. The walkathon, for kids of all ages, is to benefit CASA (Court Appointed Special Advocates). This volunteer organization relies on donations from the community.

For more information, contact Lisa McDonald at 978-475-9397, Mary Beth Finn at 978-475-0414, or Kathleen Cook at 978-623-0001.

The Department of Community Services is sponsoring a Giant Earth Day Yard Sale on Saturday, April 26 in the Park, at Bartlett and Chestnut streets, from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m.

Organizers said, "Support National Earth Day by participating as a seller or shopper. Recycle by cleaning out your garage, cellar, and attic. Your trash is someone's treasure."

Reserve a 10-foot spot in the park by calling Mary Donohue at DCS by noon, Friday, April 25. Cost is $5 per spot; set-up begins at 8 a.m., and participants should bring their own tables.

Rain date is Saturday, May 3. Yard sale participants will be selling baby and children's clothing, household and kitchen items, doll accessories, books, nicknacks, toys, sports equipment, decorative pieces and "an amazing assortment of treasured recyclables," Donohue says.

Check out the Girl Scout cookie table and also the plant table run by the Spade and Trowel Garden Club of Andover.

Louise J.T. Carvalho, publicity chair, said, "We will also have other great items for sale as well. Spade and Trowel Garden Club depends on fund-raising activities such as this to continue to offer scholarships and carry on with our civic beautification projects."

A community yard sale sponsored by the Committee to Protect Andover Zoning (PAZ) is planned for Saturday, April 26 (rain date May 3) at 8 Quail Run (off Bailey). Volunteers of all ages are preparing a wide selection of "treasures," a bake sale, and refreshments. The yard sale is scheduled from 8:30 a.m. to 1 p.m. Unsold items will be donated to Lazarus House.

PAZ has an appeal pending in Superior Court to oppose the density of the proposed Avalon at St. Clare development on River Road. Details are available on the PAZ website, www.pazonline.org. Equipment and volunteers are still needed for this event; to volunteer, call tral Command in the Middle East and Southwest Asia, they aren't the only soldiers who are overseas.

National Guardsmen from Vermont and Massachusetts recently performed their first real-world medical evacuation of an injured soldier since assuming the mission in Bosnia as part of Stabilization Force 13. On March 27, members of the unit responded to a call to transport a patient from a forward operating base to the Tuzla Army Hospital at Eagle Base.

The mission's crew included Beth Carrier of Andover. The soldiers are all members of the 86th Medical Air Ambulance Company, which is headquartered in Vermont and has a detachment at Camp Edwards, Mass.

The patient, who had a ruptured appendix, was taken into surgery immediately upon arrival at Eagle Base just 40 minutes after the call. Evacuating the patient by air to Eagle Base avoided what would have been an over two-hour evacuation on the ground, significantly improving the patient's prognosis for recovery.

Kimball is naval ops specialist

Navy seaman recruit Matthew D. Kimball, son of David B. Kimball of Andover, recently graduated from Operations Specialist School.

During the course at the Fleet Combat Training Center at Dam Neck, Virginia Beach, Va., students learn to operate surveillance and search radars, recognize and identify electronic signals, control aircraft approach devices and operate electronic navigation systems.

Studies are designed to prepare operations specialists for duty in a shipboard combat information center or at a shore-based fleet training center.

Kimball, a 2002 graduate of Andover High School, joined the Navy last June.

COMMEMORATIVE SERVICE

Mistress of ceremonies will be former Boston talk show hostess Janet Jeghelian. Organizers said she has an extensive resume in health, charitable and community interests. Jeghelian has served as guest speaker, toastmistress, fund-raiser and video narrator for many civic and church-related causes.

Throughout its formation, the group has presented several commemorative concerts, which have enhanced the genre of Armenian folk and classical music, organizers said.

Addressing the crowd will be Very Rev. Fr. Yeghishe Manjikian, outgoing pastor, St. Gregory Armenian Apostolic Church of North Andover, who will leave to accept a new position in education at the Armenian Seminary of Antilias, Lebanon.

A joint requiem service will precede the concert, conducted by area clergy. Complementing the service will be appropriate hymns by the Armenian Choral Group of Merrimack Valley, a blend of various voices from the church sector, directed by John Magarian of Lowell with Arsen Russian as accompanist.

The anniversary is being planned jointly by individuals from different organizational populations surrounding the catchphrase: "Remembrance, Renewal, Resolve - We Shall Survive."

A reception will follow in the school cafeteria. There is no admission charge. The public is invited.

Holy Week services planned at Greek Orthodox Christian Church

Saints Constantine and Helen Greek Orthodox Christian Church of Andover (71 Chandler Road) will celebrate Good Friday Services tomorrow, Friday, April 25 at 7 p.m.

Easter midnight Resurrection Service will take place Saturday evening, April 26 from 11 p.m. to 2 a.m.

Easter Sunday (April 27) service at 11 a.m., called the "Agape" (love) service, is celebrated with Resurrection Gospel passages read in several languages.

The dating of the Eastern Orthodox Easter is based on the ruling of the First Ecumenical Council (325 AD) that Easter Sunday should fall on the Sunday which follows the first full moon after the vernal equinox, according to Fr. Christopher Makiej, parish priest at the church.

Worldwide, the Orthodox Christian Church is the second largest body of believers in Christendom, after the Catholic Church, he added.

All visitors and inquirers are welcome. For additional information about the services, call 978-470-0919.

Support the fight against cancer, while enjoying great music, food, and community spirit by becoming a volunteer for the American Cancer Society Relay For Life in Greater Lawrence/North Andover on June 13-14.

Organizers are asking townspeople to lend a hand ahead of time to organize teams, or volunteer at the event.

Give as much or as little time as you can, they said. "With your help during Relay For Life, the American Cancer Society can raise vital funds for research, education, advocacy, and patient services."

To learn more about Relay For Life in Greater Lawrence/North Andover, call the American Cancer Society at 1-800-ACS-2345.

The Andover/North Andover Branch of the Merrimack Valley YMCA, 165 Haverhill St., is holding Volunteer Week in the branch lobby through Sunday, April 27. Volunteers will be there to answer questions about volunteer opportunities at the YMCA, including: storytellers, babysitters, special events organizers, wellness center assistants, clerical help, referees, homework helpers, and certified lifeguard positions. Owner Jin Won Jun

Yokohama Japanese Steak House

For many years now Yokohama Japanese Steak House has been one of the bright spots in the Merrimack Valley dining scene, serving Japanese and Korean cuisine for both lunch and dinner. Owners Jin Won Jun and Young Hee Jun offer their guests a variety of dining options, including a sushi bar. The dining room features Teppanyaki tables and the bar serves mixed drinks, brand name liquors, beer, wine, sake, and cordials to enjoy before dinner or with your meal.

The menu offers a delightful selection of dishes, from the vegetable and shrimp tempura to the more unusual Seafood Juncol, a mouthwatering spicy seafood dish served in casserole. Yokohama chefs are skilled in the Japanese tradition of beautiful presentation that enhances one's enjoyment of the delicious food. They insist on meticulous preparation and use only the finest and freshest ingredients. Nowhere else is that more evident than in the superb sashimi, sushi, and maki served at the sushi bar and in the dining room. The chefs are also happy to accommodate special requests, including vegetarian dishes.

The Teppanyaki Dinner is a favorite with both adults and children. Everyone loves the drama of having an attentive Yokohama chef prepare their meal on a grill at their Teppanyaki table. With a choice of filet mignon, sirloin steak, chicken, fish, and shellfish, these complete dinners include soup, Habachi Shrimp Appetizer, salad, fresh oriental vegetables, rice, and tea.

Yokohama is a favorite place to celebrate special occasions. Adding to the fun, your party is memorialized with a picture that joins a multitude of others on the wall.

Yokohama Steak House meals are very reasonably priced, and weekday lunch specials offer many appetizing choices at good prices. Take out is also available.

Yokohama is located at 311-313 S. Broadway (Rte. 28), South Lawrence, near the Andover line. Hours are Mon. 5 to 10 p.m., Tues.-Thurs. 11:30 a.m. to 3 p.m. and 5 to 10 p.m., Fri.-Sat. 11:30 a.m. to 3 p.m. and 5 to 11 p.m., Sun. 2 to 10 p.m. Telephone: 978-689-4047. Reservations are recommended.

OBITUARIES

Henry W. Spencer

Longtime resident;
memorial service Sunday

Henry W. "Hank" Spencer, 67, of Andover, died Sunday, April 13, at Marland Place after battling with idiopathic pulmonary fibrosis since September.

Born in 1935 in Prague, Czechoslovakia, he grew up in the Philippines before moving to New York City.

Mr. Spencer graduated from Country Day School in 1953 and earned a master's degree in civil engineering from Columbia University in 1957.

He met Barbara Lippincott in 1964 and they married in Easton, Pa. in 1965. The couple first made their home in Long Island before relocating to Massachusetts and in 1979 to Ohio.

Mr. Spencer moved to Old Schoolhouse Road in Andover in 1984 with his wife and daughter, where he lived until January, when he and his wife moved to Marland Place. They renewed their wedding vows this year on Valentine's Day in a story featured in the Townsmen.

Mr. Spencer enjoyed cross-country skiing, bicycling and most of all sailing with his brother, Sash, and friends out of Boothbay Harbor, Maine.

Since becoming a resident of Andover, he was an active member of the Unitarian Universalist Congregation where he made many strong friendships.

He worked for Grumman Aircraft, Digital Equipment Corp. for more than 23 years, Davox, Quintus and, most recently, Avaya Communications.

Members of his family include his wife of 38 years, Barbara (Lippincott) Spencer; a daughter, Joellen, and her three children, Christin, Michael and Alyssa, all of Londonderry, N.H. and formerly of Andover; a brother, Sash, and a sister, Linda Fales, both of Florida.

A memorial service will be held Saturday, April 26 at 3:30 p.m. at the Unitarian Universalist Congregation in Andover.

A reception will follow at Marland Place, Community Room, 15 Stevens St., Andover.

Doris Bayliss

Andover native; retired food service director

Doris Bayliss, 78, formerly of Andover, died Monday, April 14, in Sarasota, Fla.

She was born in Andover, where she lived most of her life before dividing her time between Andover and Sarasota.

She was a retired food service director and loving mother and wife to a family that will miss her greatly, they said.

She was the widow of Frank Bayliss.

Members of her family include her daughters, Judith Bayliss of Waltham, Susan McKenney of Boulder Creek, Calif., Patricia Carnes and her husband of Waltham, Jane Mazzaferro of Houston, Tex.; her son, Frank Bayliss and his wife of Hampstead, N.H.; sisters, Hazel Ammon of Andover and Barbara Dufresne of Hampton Beach, N.H.; and six grandchildren.

Burial services will be held at 11 a.m. Friday, May 9 at St. Augustine Cemetery, Andover.

Memorial contributions may be made to the Hospice of Southwest Florida, 5955 Rand Blvd, Sarasota, FL 34238

Nellie P. Von Kahle

Andover homemaker

Nellie P. (Marchulaitis) Von Kahle, 80, died Thursday evening, April 17 at the Lahey Clinic Medical Center in Burlington, after a lengthy illness.

She was the wife of Bernard B. Von Kahle Sr., with whom she had celebrated a 57th wedding anniversary.

She was born in Cambridge, March 15, 1923, a daughter of the late Adam and Anna (Burbal) Marchulaitis. She was raised in Cambridge and Medfield, and had lived throughout eastern Massachusetts her entire life. She had most recently resided in Andover.

She was a member of the Baystate Pacing and Trotting Association, and along with her husband was an owner of sulky racing ponies.

Besides her husband, she is survived by two sons and daughters-in-law, Bernard and Irene (Gould) Von Kahle Jr. of North Reading, Ronald and Deborah (Jayroe) Von Kahle of Stratford, N.H.; two daughters and sons-in-law, Joan and Robert Spears of Lexington, and Katherine and Raymond Deslauriers of Tyngsboro; nine grandchildren; two great-grandchildren; and many nieces and nephews.

She was also sister of the late Walter and Adam Marchulaitis and Eva Mullane.

Memorial contributions may be made to Rosie's Place, 889 Harrison Ave., Boston, MA 02118.

A funeral Mass was celebrated Tuesday, April 22 in St. William's Church, 1351 Main St. (Rte 38), Tewksbury.

Private interment services will be held in St. Joseph's Cemetery, West Roxbury.

Arrangements were by the Tewksbury Funeral Home, Tewksbury.

W. Calvin Robinson

Businessman and charitable leader

W. Calvin Robinson, 87, of Andover, Arlington and Lake Winnepesaukee, N.H. died Monday, April 14, at his home in Andover.

Mr. Robinson teamed with entrepreneur Neil Tillotson in the successful introduction of latex medical gloves.

Working together for 40 years - selling balloons in the Depression and then leading Tillotson companies, they were market leaders and innovators in the fields of latex materials and medical products.

He and his wife, Billie, settled in Arlington, where he was a deacon in the Baptist Church. Mr. Robinson believed strongly in giving to the community. He chaired the Prudential Committee for church finances and sang in the barbershop quartet - not well, but actively, his family said.

He spent a major part of his retired life assisting and promoting CLASS, the Citizen League for Adult Special Services.

"Cal is a quiet man of great dignity and integrity," said Robert Lionette in a bulletin. "He is filled with compassion for his fellow man, and has always stretched out his hand to those who need him." Beginning as a volunteer, a member of the board of directors and following that a key adviser, the organization recognized Mr. Robinson for his support of the mentally retarded. "We are very fortunate to have Cal as a major contributor."

At the age of 80, Mr. Robinson married Clara Ahearn. "Like magicians, they grew younger each year," his family said. They established their living quarters in Andover and spent summers at his beloved Lake Winnepesaukee and winters in Naples, Fla.

Besides his wife, members of his family include his son Walter Robinson and his wife Kate; daughter Phyllis Ray and her

Jeanne M. Bedell

Andover educator was first woman engineer at Raytheon

Jeanne M. Bedell, 72, of Andover, died Wednesday, April 16 at Lawrence General Hospital in Lawrence.

Born in Boston, Jeanne M. (Donahue) Bedell graduated valedictorian, summa cum laude; received a bachelor's degree in chemistry from Nazareth College (Spaulding University, Ky.) in 1952; and a master of science in chemistry from Boston College in 1954.

In 1954 she became the first woman engineer at Raytheon. In 1963, after the birth of her second son, she left Raytheon to become a full-time mother.

After her children were grown, she started a second career as a teacher at West Junior High School in Andover.

She loved teaching and took a great interest in her students, her family said.

In 1988 she joined Phillips Academy as the laboratory manager of the Biology Department. She enjoyed 10 years there, and retired in 1998.

Mrs. Bedell was a past president of Saint Augustine School Guild and the Spade and Trowel Garden Club.

She taught CCD and was a eucharistic minister at St. Robert Bellarmine Church.

"Jeanne loved students and loved people. She was a devoted wife and loving mother," her family said.

Members of her family include her husband of 44 years, Dr. Stanley F. Bedell of Andover; son Mark Bedell and partner Val Slavin of San Juan, Puerto Rico, son Christopher Bedell and his wife Julia Y. Bedell of Crescent Springs, Ky., son Brian Bedell and his wife Beth B. Bedell of Clifton, Va., and son Andrew Bedell and his wife Emily M. Bedell of Beirut, Lebanon; brothers Robert Donahue of Virginia, and David Donahue of Norcross, Ga.; four grandchildren; and several nieces and nephews.

She was the sister of the late Paul Donahue of Pittsfield.

A funeral Mass was celebrated Tuesday at St. Robert Bellarmine Church of Andover, with burial in Spring Grove Cemetery.

Arrangements were by the Pollard Funeral Home, 233 Lawrence St., Methuen.

ALL THOSE YEARS AGO

100 Years Ago - 1903

Nathan Gage Jr. returned to Dartmouth College on Wednesday night.

About one o'clock Tuesday morning, some rogues pulled down E.V.N. Hitchcock's sign and also some hooks on the front of Valpey's store.

Heretofore the flag on the Town House had floated to the breeze from the porch over the main entrance. Mr. Saunders, the janitor, has lately made changes by which the flag can be swung by the attic window.

Every man, woman and child within 50 miles of Lawrence should see the wonderful exhibit of facsimile crowns of all the rulers of the world, now on exhibition on the third floor at Reid & Hughes' big store.

Advertisement for Hood's Sarsaparilla and Pills: That tired feeling is a common Spring Trouble. It's a sign that the blood is deficient in vitality, just as pimples and other eruptions are signs that the blood is impure.

The outlook for the baseball season at Pynchard High school is very favorable.

75 Years Ago - 1928

Missing since Monday noon, the body of 3-year-old William Augustine Daley, son of Mr. and Mrs. Timothy Daley of 86 Essex St., was found floating in the Shawshen River at one o'clock Tuesday morning.

In an official announcement from the White House, Dr. Stearns, chairman of the executive committee in charge of the 150th anniversary celebration, has been authorized to state that President Calvin Coolidge hopes to attend festivities on Friday, May 18, and to give a public address that afternoon.

A new Harley-Davidson motorcycle was purchased Monday by the police department.

The new auditorium at Memorial Hall was used for the first time for a public gathering on Tuesday evening when the members of the Andover Natural Historical Society assembled to hear Miss Fannie Davis give a talk on "The History of Ships from the Beginning."

Urging all voters to take part in the Presidential Primary election, April 24, the Andover League of Women Voters emphasizes the fact that for the first time since women were voters they have the chance to say on their ballots who their choice for presidential candidate is.

50 Years Ago - 1953

At a special meeting of the School Committee Monday night several applicants for the position of football coach at Pynchard were discussed but no action was taken.

The local Red Cross chapter reminds Andover citizens that the bloodmobile will be at South Church.

A blanket of 5 to 6 inches of wet snow covered the town Tuesday in an unseasonable April snowstorm that felled large branches of trees, brought down large power and telephone lines and bogged traffic for several hours.

The first annual Booster Club All-Sports banquet is being planned to take place that last week of May in the school auditorium.

The second annual laymen's communion breakfast under the auspices of the Andover Council of Churches will be held Sunday, May 17, in the Baptist Church, followed by breakfast at the Free Church.

The selectmen Monday night voted to re-appoint practically all the appointive officers of the town to serve in their respective posts for another year.

25 Years Ago - 1978

Two hundred years ago tomorrow, Samuel Phillips Jr.

founded Phillips Academy on Andover's Main street.

The Andover School Committee Tuesday night accepted as "the best of various bad choices" the use of double sessions at West Jr. High during renovations at East in the 1979-80 school year.

The setting for next week's annual Town Meeting could hardly be more fitting, as the town's voters gathered under gaping holes in the East Jr. High's Auditorium ceiling to vote yes or no to planning funds for renovations at the school.

From a letter to the editor: I urge my friends and neighbors to go to Town Meeting next week and vote for Article 21, which proposes that Andover join the Merrimack Valley Regional Transit Authority.

Andover residents have been invited down to the Turner Farm on South Main Street Sunday, for a tour of the old farm house and barn, and a study of one of the few working farms remaining in Andover.

Former School Committee Chairman Francis E. Griggs Jr., this week charged the school administration with "pork barrelling" an "obvious need" for renovations at East Jr. High School into a $10 million building plan, and countered with a $3 to $4 million plan for improvements at East alone.

10 Years Ago - 1993

Future town meetings will start on time, but voters had to wait nearly 20 minutes both Monday and Tuesday nights for a quorum - 350 people.

Voters at Town Meeting Monday night approved an amendment to town bylaws that would allow the placement of political signs on private property for the first time in Andover.

OBITUARIES

The Townsmen will publish obituaries of Andover residents without charge.

The paper also will publish without charge a short announcement of those people who died and did not live here, but are related to someone who lives in Andover. This listing will include the name of the deceased, where he or she lived, when he or she died, and names of relatives in Andover.

Those who wish to have a complete obituary published about a person who did not live in Andover can pay for a death notice. The cost of a death notice depends on the length of the notice.

AHS ROUNDUP

Spring teams continue to rack up wins

4 teams still unbeaten; baseball team already has more wins than last year's season total

By Rick Harrison

Four Andover High varsity sports teams headed into spring vacation week undefeated.

In action through Tuesday there were no blemishes on the records of the AHS girls tennis (5-0), girls lacrosse (5-0), girls track (2-0) and boys track (2-0) teams.

The baseball team has already bettered its entire win total compared with last spring, and the boys volleyball squad is halfway to the number of victories necessary for a Division 1 North Tournament berth.

SOFTBALL

The Andover High varsity softball team split a pair of recent games, posting an impressive 7-4 Merrimack Valley Conference win over perennial power Lowell in 11 innings before dropping an 8-3 non-league decision to visiting Everett High.

Those results sent the Lady Warriors into vacation week with a 1-1 conference record and 1-3 overall mark.

Schedule

The Lady Warriors are at Haverhill this afternoon (3:30 p.m.), and next Monday the locals host Lawrence High (3:30).

Andover 7 Lowell 4 (11 Innings)

Lowell was the only team AHS coach Steph Ragucci had not beaten in her seven years with the Lady Warriors.

That thorn has now been removed from Ragucci's side, as Kerrie Dargan's two-run double highlighted a four-run top of the 11th to lift the locals to victory at Martin Field in Lowell.

"We hit the ball well for the first time and Caitlin (Carpentier) pitched an outstanding game," said Ragucci. "This win should be a confidence booster for us."

After being shut out twice by Tewksbury in its first two games, Andover scored its first run of the season in the second inning against Lowell.

Farmer drilled the team's first homer of the season in the sixth, a solo shot down the left field line, to hike the AHS lead to 3-0.

Lowell, 3-1 including a pair of wins over Dracut (1-0 and 7-1), rallied with three runs in the bottom of the seventh to tie it and force extra innings.

Amanda Gallant (No. 11) heads to the goal swarmed by Arlington defenders. The girls lacrosse team, at 5-0, is one of four Andover High teams still undefeated going into spring vacation week this week.

A dropped throw allowed two of those runs to score, but Carpentier bore down and retired the side on a grounder to shortstop Liz Pallotta with the winning run at third base.

"Our kids could have crumbled after Lowell came back," said Ragucci. "But they settled down nicely and went back to work."

Carpentier and rival hurler Rachel Hebert pitched shutout ball in the eighth, ninth and 10th frames, with Carpentier escaping a bases-loaded, no-out jam in the 10th on an infield pop, strikeout and fly ball to center.

Leider kicked off the Lady Warriors' decisive four-run rally in the 11th with an RBI single, resuing sophomore outfielder Anastasia Sullivan who started the inning at second base because of the international tiebreaker rule.

Capt. Jackie Collins laid down a sacrifice bunt, the dangerous Farmer walked, and following a passed ball Dargan hammered her long two-run double to left.

Meagan Merinder then ripped an RBI single to center, which plated Dargan with the final run.

Lowell stirred again in the bottom of the 11th, loading the bases with one out and scoring a run before Carpentier slammed the door.

Carpentier scattered eight Lowell hits over the 11-inning distance, striking out five and walking two.

Andover's 10-hit attack was led by Vieira, who finished 3-for-5, and Farmer with the homer, two singles, two RBI and two runs scored.

Leider doubled, singled and scored twice.

Dargan and Farmer also played well defensively at third and first base, respectively.

OUTDOOR TRACK

Both Andover High track teams posted their second straight Merrimack Valley Conference dual-meet victories at Lowell's expense, the AHS girls rolling 92-53 and the boys notching a 78-67 win.

At 2-0 the boys have already doubled last spring's entire victory total, while the girls are establishing themselves as a favorite to win their fifth MVC 1 title in seven years.

Schedule

Both AHS teams will be in action at separate sites this Saturday, the girls at the Tewksbury Invitational and the boys at the Haverhill Invitational.

The next MVC dual meet is Wednesday afternoon at Haverhill (3:30 p.m.).

Andover girls 92 Lowell 53

Capt. Stephanie Casper and Carolyn Berberian, along with Jenny Dlesk, posted a pair of wins each as the Lady Warriors placed first in 11 of 17 events and swept the 300 meter intermediate hurdles.

Casper was tops in the triple jump (34'10 1/2") and 400 meters (61.7), while Berberian won the long jump (15'10") and tied Lowell's Abby DeAngelo for first in the high jump (4'8").

Speedster Dlesk broke the tape in the 100 meter (12.5) and 200 meter (26.7) dashes.

The sweep of the 300 hurdles was done by freshman Jen Merinder (49.7), junior Allison Kerivan (50.0) and versatile Capt. Katie Cail (51.4).

Cail scored in three events for the second straight meet, adding a second place in the triple jump (33'1 1/2") and third in the 100-meter high hurdles (17.0).

The Lady Warriors' 4x100 sprint relay of freshmen Caroline and Britany Pierce, junior Amanda Carlson and junior Charlene Fielding was victorious in 53.2.

Sophomore Felicia Thompson finished runner-up in both the shot put (30'3") and discus (92'5"), while other seconds were nailed down by two-miler Jazzy Dingler (13:10.7), sophomore 100-meter hurdler Meaghan Keefe (16.7), freshman miler Courtney Hamer (5:57.4), Carlson (200 meters, 27.1), Pierce (100 meters, 12.9) and Ashley Faulk (javelin, 96'9").

Placing third were Willey in the mile (6:10.8), sophomore Emily Korba

Brian Buckley went 3 for 4 with 2 RBIs against Tewksbury.

Andover boys 78 Lowell 67

Junior Vin Errico and Capt. Phil Shaw were double winners as the Golden Warriors placed first in 10 of 17 events and keyed the victory by sweeping the shot put and discus throws.

Errico, who has five individual victories in two dual meets, swept the hurdles with a swift 15.5 clocking in the 110 meter highs and 43.0 in the 300 meter intermediates.

Errico also unleashed an excellent 41'3" triple jump, good enough for second place behind Lowell's Claudius Zorokong who soared 41'8 1/2."

Shaw dominated the distance races again with triumphs in the two-mile (10:48) and 800 meters (2:03.9).

Cleaning house in the discus were Chris Cole (109'7"), Capt. Russell Stevens (100'3") and Mike Alvarez (94'2").

Cole chalked up 11 team points with a two second-place finishes as well, trailing Errico in both the 300 hurdles (43.9) and 110 hurdles (16.4).

Other individual winners for AHS were sophomore Dave Checrallah in the javelin (140 feet), miler Ryan Durkin (4:43.9) and junior sprinter Bruce Hillman (200 meters, 22.9).

The 4x400 relay of Mark Radlinski, Hender, Durkin and Robert Kautman placed first in 3:44.1.

Additional seconds went to pole vaulter Dave Aleska (9 feet), high jumper Dan Calderon (5'10") and sprinter Ryan Donahue (100 meters, 11.6).

BASEBALL

Brett Carroll and Jon Shaw combined for a one-hitter, and the Andover High baseball team scored in each of the first five innings including six runs in the bottom of the first, on the way to a 12-1 non-league romp over visiting Revere at Peter Aumais Park.

The Golden Warriors also split their first two Merrimack Valley Conference games.

AHS carried a five-run lead into the sixth inning of the opener, before Tewksbury rallied to pull out a wild 12-9 triumph, and the locals then scored a solid 7-3 victory over Divi-

BEFORE THE FIRST TOOTH ARRIVES

Parents should start looking after their children's teeth even before the first tooth erupts. Use gauze or a soft, damp washcloth to clean an infant's gums. Gently wipe and massage the gums after feeding and right before bedtime. When teeth begin to erupt brush with a pea-size amount of toothpaste on the toothbrush and begin flossing. Remember, too, that a condition called "nursing bottle mouth" can be caused by improper feeding methods. Sugar in formulas and juices can mix with plaque, causing acid to form that attacks tooth enamel. If not removed with brushing, this acid can attack teeth within twenty minutes of feeding. And never allow an infant to fall asleep with a bottle in his or her mouth.

AHS ROUNDUP

sion 1 foe Central Catholic.

Andover also beat Beverly in the opening round of the Wakefield Invitational Tournament.

The recent results left coach Ken Maglio's crew at 4-2 overall, and they have already surpassed the win total from last spring.

Schedule

AHS traveled to face reigning MVC 1 champ Chelmsford (4-2) yesterday, after Townsmen presstime, and tomorrow the Golden Warriors host Billerica (2-2) at Peter Aumais Park (2 p.m.).

Andover 12
Revere 1

AHS sophomore Matt Hogan had a huge day at the plate, finishing 3-for-3 with three RBI and three runs scored, as AHS rolled to victory.

His two-run single highlighted the six-run first-inning uprising.

Paul Skinner and Ryan Shepard each contributed a hit and scored twice, while Skinner drove home a pair of runs.

Also lashing a safety each for the winners were leadoff batter Matt Hennessy, Brian Buckley, Joel Keefe and freshman Paul Malaguti.

Jarrett Mackin scored twice and knocking in one run apiece were Hennessey, Malaguti and Buckley.

Carroll pitched five hitless innings, and a scratch single surrendered by Shaw in the seventh was the lone safety in the impressive bid for the combined no-hitter.

Tewksbury 12
Andover 9

The Golden Warriors had leads of 2-0, 5-2 and 9-4 before three-time reigning MVC 2 champ Tewksbury exploded for eight runs in the top of the sixth at Peter Aumais Park.

"We should have had this game but we let it get away," said coach Maglio. "It was very cold and windy. A couple of walks and a pop fly that was misjudged got us into trouble."

"They also had a broken bat bloop over the drawn-in infield with the bases loaded, and then another bloop that was just out of reach of our pitcher."

"It was one of those crazy innings where everything went right for them and nothing went right for us," said Maglio.

"We're young and we didn't quit. In the bottom of the sixth we put two men on and had the tying run at the plate. (Matt) Iorio hit a line shot and their second baseman made a nice catch to save two runs."

Andover then loaded the bases in the last of the seventh, but another line drive was stabbed by the Redman first baseman to end the frustrating day.

Kyle Ahern got the call as the starting pitcher against Tewksbury. Tewksbury ran away with the game in the top of the sixth, scoring 8 runs and winning 12-9 at Peter Aumais Park.

DH Joel Keefe, batting cleanup, also had a huge day with two doubles, a single and two RBI.

Matt Hennessy laced a run-scoring double, Jarrett Mackin scored a run and drove one across, and sophomore Matt Hogan laced a hit.

Paul Skinner and Paul Malaguti scored one run apiece. Skinner played a strong defensive game at catcher.

D.J. Bettencourt, son of former AHS head coach Dave Bettencourt, had a double, two singles and three RBI for Tewksbury. Contributing two safeties each to a 11-hit TMHS attack were winning pitcher Mike Rocco (double, RBI), Ryan Corson (two RBI, two runs) and Errol Fagone (double, RBI, two runs scored).

Central Catholic 3

The visiting Raiders scored all three runs in the top of the first, but after that Andover reliever Matt Hogan slammed the door and the offense battled back with a run in the fourth, two in the fifth and four tie-breaking tallies in the bottom of the sixth at Peter Aumais Park.

The comeback started in the fourth with a successful squeeze bunt, and the opportunistic locals tied the game in the fifth on a walk, sacrifice bunt, bunt single, passed ball and another squeeze bunt.

The pivotal sixth featured singles by Hogan, Paul Skinner, Joel Keefe (RBI), a run-scoring infield out, a double steal and an error.

Sophomore Hogan tossed three-hit shutout ball over the final six innings.

Matt Hennessy collected two RBI, Jarrett Mackin one and Brian Buckley one.

GIRLS TENNIS

Performing an impressive feat that can only be equaled and never surpassed, the undefeated Andover High girls tennis team recently beat Notre Dame Academy of Tyngsboro, 5-0, and did not lose a game in the 10 sets.

Every singles and doubles match ended in a 6-0, 6-0 AHS sweep as the Lady Warriors brought new meaning to the word domination.

The 13-time reigning MVC champs also drubbed Chelmsford, 5-0, to enter the school vacation week layoff with an overall 5-0 mark in Merrimack Valley Conference play.

Schedule

The Lady Warriors return to the courts next Monday at home versus Lowell, play at Billerica on Wednesday and host Lawrence on Friday (all 3:30 p.m. matches).

Notre Dame Academy 0

Producing the 12-game 6-0, 6-0 victories in singles were junior Marsha Mogilevich, sophomore Christie Spang and freshman Hannah Zarkar, who blitzed overmatched NDA rivals Kelly Auger, Caitlin Wilson and Spadana Parkata respectively.

Completing the rare accomplishment with similar 6-0, 6-0 romps in doubles were the No. 1 team of Capts. Jenicka Hornung and Lauren Fitzgerald and the No. 2 tandem of sophomore Jodi Richard and junior Wendy Chen.

Lancer victims at first doubles were Erin Harty and Kate Richards, while NDA's Kelly McCarthy and Siobhan Fleming were whitewashed at second doubles.

Chelmsford 0

Marsha Mogilevich continued to steamroll every challenger, this time disposing of the Lions' Meghan Roark 6-1, 6-1 at first singles.

Christie Spang stamped over Liz Cohen 6-1, 6-3 and Hannah Zarkar also remained perfect with a 6-1, 6-1 cruise past Courtney Walsh.

Capt. Helen Hodges and junior Brittany Roy stepped in at first doubles and put a 6-1, 6-4 hurting on Meghan Hoopin and Jasmin Lin of Chelmsford.

BOYS TENNIS

The first of two showdowns with Chelmsford did not go the way the Andover High boys tennis team had hoped, as the visiting Lions settled into the Merrimack Valley Conference driver's seat by defeating coach Mike Wartman's squad, 4-1.

The setback left the Golden Warriors at 2-1 in conference play and 2-2 overall.

Schedule

The post-school vacation schedule begins next Monday afternoon at Lowell, and the locals also host Billerica on Wednesday and play at Lawrence Friday of next week (all 3:30 matches).

Andover 1

The locals were out to avenge a pair of tough losses last spring, as the Lions ended Andover's stranglehold on the MVC with two hard-fought 3-2 wins. The first of those matches also snapped a lengthy AHS conference win streak.

Chelmsford did not cooperate, however, as the undefeated conference leaders (6-0) made it three straight over the Golden Warriors.

With top singles player Jason Lynn once again out of the lineup, Andover's Alex Cline, Jason Edelstein and sophomore Mike Zakin lost straight-set decisions to the Lions' Colin Klick (6-1, 6-1), Chris Irving (6-2, 6-2) and Alex Loyer (6-1, 6-3).

It was the first time in more than a decade an MVC rival swept singles against the locals.

Capt. Dave Nill and sophomore Josh Caplan recorded the lone point for AHS with a 6-1, 6-2 romp over Ajay Shah and Eric Shu at second doubles.

The Golden Warriors top doubles tandem of Brian Axelrod and Avi Lasser dropped a tough three-set decision to Chris Sims and Peter Almlof.

Axelrod and Lasser won the first set, 6-3, before the Chelmsford duo tied it with a 6-4 victory. The third set went back and forth before Sims and Almlof rallied for a 7-5 triumph.

This also marked the first time in 14 years an MVC rival had scored more than three points against an AHS boys team.

BOYS VOLLEYBALL

With the midway point of the season just two matches away, the Andover High boys varsity volleyball team remained on pace for a Division 1 North Tournament berth by splitting a pair of recent Merrimack Valley Conference contests.

The Golden Warriors handled Billerica, 2-0, before being handled by Haverhill, 2-0.

Those results were sandwiched around a 3-0 non-conference sweep of Phillips Academy, leaving the locals at 5-3 in MVC play and 6-3 overall.

Schedule

AHS hosts Lawrence today at the Dunn Gym and next week has three matches in three days, hosting Lowell on Monday (4 p.m.), Westford Academy on Tuesday (4 p.m.) and playing at Dracut Wednesday night (6 p.m.).

Injury report

The latest report on Andover senior middle hitter, 2002 MVC Division 2 Player of the Year and Capt. Steve Johnson is that his shoulder injury is pulled ligaments.

Johnson, most likely headed to UMass Amherst in the fall, is out indefinitely but could be back on the court within two weeks.

"Naturally Steve won't touch a volleyball until the doctor says he can," said head coach George Sullivan.

Billerica 0

Putting together perhaps its sharpest start-to-finish effort of the season, the host Golden Warriors rolled to a 30-21, 30-14 sweep of the Indians at the Dunn Gym.

Without Steve Johnson in the lineup, Cameron Day emerged as the top hitter with 18-for-21 and eight kills.

David Hsu finished 7-for-7 at the net with five kills, while Steve Gerstein was 6-for-7, Jake Kleinman 5-for-6, Andy Ahern 4-for-4 with two kills, Tim An 3-for-3 and Capt. Shawn Furey 3-for-4 from the back row.

Day also served well, 7-for-7 with one ace, while An was 8-for-9 serving. Sean Cummings and Hsu both 6-for-7, Gerstein 6-for-9 with one ace, Matt Monteiro 5-for-7 and Casey Cho 3-for-3.

The Golden Warriors never trailed in either game.

The AHS junior varsity won, 2-0, with game scores of 30-17 and 30-12.

Playing well in the prelim were Adam Spang (13-for-13 serving, five aces), Sam Silverman (13-for-14, two aces) and Chris James (10-for-11, two aces).

Other standouts included Dan Jun (5-for-7, one ace), Pardeep Thandi (4-for-4, two aces) and hitters Jerry Mohan (4-for-4), Nick Assad (4-for-5), Tyler Carroll and Matt Jacobs.

Andover 3
Phillips Academy 0

The Golden Warriors were never in trouble as they rolled to the 30-16, 30-16, 30-20 sweep of their non-league crosstown rival.

Top hitters for the winners were Cameron Day (14-for-16, six kills), David Hsu (14-for-14, five kills), Jake Kleinman (9-for-10, three kills) and Matt Monteiro (9-for-11, two kills).

Also playing well at the net were Andy Ahern (6-for-7 hitting, one kill) and Steve Gerstein (6-for-8 hitting).

"It was a good match for us because we mixed things up and were able to try new plays and defenses," said coach Sullivan.

There was no JV prelim.

Haverhill 2
Andover 0

The Golden Warriors, who experienced some problems in the blocking department, lost the first game 30-22 and took the second to overtime before being edged, 33-31.

AHS managed only four kills in the match and was paced by top hitters Cameron Day (11-for-15, one kill), Andy Ahern (9-for-10, one kill), Matt Monteiro (9-for-11, two kills), David Hsu (9-for-11), Jake Kleinman (3-for-5), Casey Cho and Steve Gerstein.

Day and Hsu were the leading servers, the former a perfect 11-for-11 and the latter 10-for-10 with one ace.

Monteiro was 7-for-7 serving, Tim An 8-for-9 and Jake Minton 6-for-7.

Coach Dennis Aikman's Andover JVs moved to 8-0 with a 2-0 victory in the prelim, winning by game scores of 30-15 and 30-23.

Top hitters included Jerry Mohan (10-for-12, one kill), Pat Hughes (9-for-10, one kill), Chris James (7-for-8, two kills), Tyler Carroll (7-for-9, two kills), Mike Gianopoulos (4-for-5, two kills) and Alan Day (4-for-6, one kill).

Leading servers were Dan Jun (11-for-13, six aces), Sam Silverman (11-for-13, five aces), Chris Cho (10-for-10, four aces), Adam Spang (7-for-7) and Pardeep Thandi (6-for-6).

GIRLS LACROSSE

Senior attack Diana Crawford led four multiple goalscorers as the unbeaten Andover High girls lacrosse team traveled to Central Mass. and pinned a 13-5 loss on non-league host Shrewsbury High.

Crawford scored four goals for the third time this spring, and the defense came up huge in the second half when AHS outscored the host team, 6-0.

Andover has scored double figures in each of its first five games, while allowing five or fewer goals every time and outscoring the opposition by a healthy 62-17 margin overall.

Schedule

Andover (5-0) played at perennial south shore power Duxbury yesterday morning, after Townsmen presstime, and treks to Algonquin Regional in Northboro tomorrow morning (11 a.m.).

Two games postponed earlier this month have been rescheduled.

AHS will play at Gloucester on May 12 at 4 p.m. and host Masconomet Regional of Topsfield on May 19 at 3:45 p.m.

Andover 13
Shrewsbury 5

The Lady Warriors were clinging to a 7-5 lead at the half, but just as they had in the previous game with Billerica the locals totally dominated after

St. Augustine B captured the Andover Church Basketball League Girls Senior Division championship following a 20-15 win over South Church that broke a first-place tie.

SENIOR GIRLS

WEEK 9

St. Augustine B 20

South Church 15

St. Augustine B (7-1) used a balanced scoring attack in this title-clinching win, as Kimberly Miller led seven players into the points column with 6.

Kirstin Heinrich netted 4 points and single baskets were contributed by Christina Coravos, Amanda Fiorentino, Lauren Keefe, Grace Miceli and Katie Morris.

Other members of the championship team are Katie Anderson, April Fiorentino, Rachel Malins and Christina Saccone. Heather Arvidson kept South in contention with 12 points, playing a strong inside game, while Kaleigh Biles had 3 points.

Lauren Barry and Kristina Fuerst also played well.

St. Augustine A 12

St. Augustine C 6

Stephanie Eng tossed in 6 points for SAA, while Becky Robichaud had 4 and Hallie Hauer 2. SAC countered with 4 points from Jennifer Quinlan and a field goal by Julie Walsh.

WEEK 8

St. Augustine B 16

St. Robert's 14 (ot)

This struggle between division tri-leaders went to overtime, and was decided when Kimberly Miller of St. Augustine B tossed in the winning basket.

That sets up a championship showdown between SAB and South Church, both of whom have one loss, in the final game of the season.

Miller led all scorers in this one with 6 points, while Katie Morris and Katie Anderson added 4 points each. Lauren Keefe completed the offense with a field goal.

St. Robert's was sparked by Caroline O'Malley and Allie Umlah with 4 points apiece. Jillian Caraviello, Carolyn Damphouse and Kayley Pettoruto contributed 2 points each.

WEEK 7

St. Augustine B 22

Junior home Jeannie Lothrop contributed a hat trick for the winners, while senior attack Demorie Crawford and Capt. Amanda Gallant netted two goals each.

Completing the offense with one goal apiece were attack wing Grace Farnham and junior center Ali McCoy.

Gallant rounded out a five-point game with three assists, Farnham added two and single setups were credited to both Crawford sisters, sophomore defense wing Kate Nichols and Lothrop.

Goaltender Jennie Williams had another excellent outing with 10 saves.

BOYS LACROSSE

Freshman attack Mike Lamagna and senior midfielder Nick Stamas netted two goals each as the Andover High boys lacrosse team toppled host Lowell, 7-2.

That win was sandwiched around a pair of losses, however, as the Golden Warriors fell to 2-3 overall.

The second time around against Acton-Boxboro was not as pleasant, as the Golden Warriors dropped a 12-7 decision to the host Colonials in their Merrimack Valley/Dual County League Alliance rematch.

North Andover also galloped past the locals, 17-7, in a Patriots' Day non-leaguer.

Schedule

Andover plays at Lexington this afternoon and hosts Billerica on Monday afternoon at the Shawsheen field (both games at 4 p.m.).

Two makeup dates have been confirmed. Andover plays at MVC/DCL rival Concord-Carlisle this Saturday morning (10 a.m.) and at Lincoln-Sudbury on Monday, May 12 at 4 p.m.

ence," said AHS coach Wayne Puglisi.

Backing up the two-goal efforts of Lamagna and Stamas were single tallies by Toby Cohen, sophomore attack Jeff Borstell and sophomore midfielder Eric Hanson.

Buddy Farnham, Capt. Greg Hartwell, Stamas and Cohen had an assist each.

Hanson, Borstell and fellow sophomores Seth Martin, defender Omar Hermosa and Jon Iannelli were lauded for their outstanding play by coach Puglisi.

Zach Gostanian played the first half in goal and made three saves, while senior Scott Chamberlin stopped all four shots he faced in the second half.

Acton-Boxboro 12

Andover 7

The Golden Warriors, who stunned Acton-Boxboro 8-5 in their season opener, fell behind 4-1 in the first quarter of this one and never caught up.

Freshman midfielder Buddy Farnham, who hurt the Colonials in their first meeting, scored a hat trick to spark

AHS.

Capt. Nick Stamas contributed one goal and three assists, while other marksmen were junior midfielder Tyler Hopkins, junior attack Toby Cohen and Mike Lamagna.

Farnham also had an assist, as did Cohen, while sophomore goaltender Zach Gostanian made eight saves.

Evan Chateaufneuf posted a big game for Acton-Boxboro with four goals, and Brian Miller added a hat trick.

"Acton was much improved from the first game," said AHS coach Puglisi. "We spotted them four early goals and that's tough to overcome. We cut the deficit to two but couldn't get any closer."

"It was a much cleaner game this time around. Both teams showed their skill levels and made some nice plays."

North Andover 17

Andover 7

AHS had an early 2-0 lead, but by halftime the Scarlet Knights (7-1) enjoyed a 9-3 cushion which they increased to 14-4 after three periods.

Steve Seero and Aaron Dynes netted two goals each for the locals while Buddy Farnham, Torey Nicholson and Dan Andrews connected once each.

Greg Hartwell passed out two assists and Nick Stamas one, while goaltenders Zach Gostanian and Scott Chamberlin combined for 11 saves.

Jim Connolly was on fire for North Andover with seven goals and two assists.

Marc Shaughnessy of Andover is a member of the Trinity College men's rowing team.

The sophomore was in the lineup recently when the Bantams varsity eight defeated Tulane and Coast Guard in a competition on the Malden River.

Jen Roberge of Andover is the No. 1 catcher on the Merrimack College softball team this spring.

In a recent 3-0 Northeast-10 Conference win over Bryant College in Smithfield, R.I., sophomore receiver Roberge broke the game open in the top of the fifth when she roped a two-run double and later scored the insurance tally on an error.

That week she was named to the NE-10 Weekly Honor Roll after batting .500 with 11 hits, a homer, two doubles, six RBI and four runs scored in six games.

She was 3-for-3, including the homer, in a win over Southern New Hampshire and 3-for-4 with a double in a loss to AIC.

In a recent 7-3, 5-1 doubleheader sweep of Stonehill by the Bentley College softball team, Lisa Tisbert of Andover had a key two-run single in the second game and Courtney Famiglietti of Andover hit safely in both games with an RBI single in the opener.

Alex Gostanian of Andover, a freshman goaltender on the St. Anselm College men's lacrosse team, was recently named to the Northeast-10 Conference Weekly Honor Roll.

Gostanian played 138 minutes over three games and registered two wins, making 23 saves and yielding 19 goals.

Through the Hawks' first eight games, Gostanian ranked third in the conference in save percentage (.540) and average goals allowed per game (.1270).

LEGAL NOTICES

TOWN OF ANDOVER BOARD OF HEALTH

In accordance with the provision of M.G.L. Chapter 111, Section 31, The Andover Board of Health, at its regularly scheduled meeting of April 14, 2003 voted unanimously to adopt "ANDOVER BOARD OF HEALTH RECREATIONAL CAMP FOR CHILDREN REGULATIONS". The provisions of the regulation are summarized as follows:

- Section 1 Camps must have written policy and staff training to identify all personnel within the campsite.
- Section 2 Application for camp licenses accompanied by all required documentation must be submitted one month (30 days) prior to the first day of camp.
- Section 3 All campers and staff must have documentation of age appropriate immunizations for school entry for personnel under 18 years of age or in compliance with 105CMR 430.15B for personnel over 18 years of age.

These regulations are effective immediately upon publication and are in addition to the Minimum Standards and Safety Standards for Recreational Camps for Children of the State Sanitary Code: Chapter IV.

Copies of the full text of the regulations are available at the Health Division Office of Department of Community Development and Planning, Town Offices, 36 Bartlett Street, Andover, MA 01810.

A bright and spacious cupola overlooking the town of Andover is the vantage point for students coming to study at Beaven & Associates, a private tutoring agency, established in 1976 and dedicated to creating individualized programs that put the student at the center of his or her own educational experience. Each program is self-paced and takes into account a student's learning style, aptitude, and potential. Each student contracts with his tutor to work together to achieve the student's goal within an agreed upon time frame. A student may aim to reach a better performance level in his present schoolwork, attain a higher score on the College Boards, or pursue an extra subject for personal enrichment. Beaven and Associates is located at 91 Main Street Andover, Tel. 978-475-5487. For details, visit our web site: www.BeavenandAssociates.com.

REAL ESTATE

Seven new developments in the works all with 25 percent of the units affordable

By Judy Wakefield

A fast-growing segment of Andover's hot real-estate market involves new condominium and apartment developments that will bring more affordable housing to town.

Currently, there are seven new developments that either have been reviewed by the zoning board or will come before the board shortly. All of them include affordable housing units.

Meanwhile, permits for single-family homes are slowing down because Andover is approaching build out. There are not as many easily usable lots left for developers to create the type of cul-de-sac neighborhoods that kept previous zoning boards busy.

"Now, we're in the tear-down phase of mansionization," said Planning Director Steve Colyer, of Andover's real-estate scene. "There's no room for new housing, so homeowners tear down the house and build a new one."

Affordable housing

Condo, townhouse and apartment projects are dotting the real-estate scene in large part because developers know that Andover's affordable housing percentage is below the state standard of 10 percent.

Colyer said affordable housing spurts in Andover are "cyclical," typically happening just after census data is released. The last census data was released in 2000, and, as expected, within a few months the zoning board got its first comprehensive permit application from a developer in more than 10 years.

Comprehensive permits — also known as Ch. 40B or anti-snob zoning proposals — can be filed by developers in communities where less than 10 percent of the homes are classified as "affordable" by the state.

They are controversial because, in such communities, they can allow developers to skirt local zoning regulations in return for building projects in which at least a quarter of the units are "affordable" — sold or rented at reduced rates to people whose incomes qualify as low or moderate.

In short, if towns that have less than 10 percent of their homes classified as "affordable" reject Ch. 40B applications, or place burdensome conditions on them, the developers can appeal to the state Housing Appeals Committee. Colyer said "nine times out of 10 the state will overturn a community's zoning decision" if that community's affordable housing ratio is less than 10 percent.

"There's a misconception out there of what 10 percent is," Colyer said. "What it means is that it gets you (a community) off the appeals hook."

The latest numbers supplied by Colyer include these facts:

- The 2000 census says there are 11,513 dwelling units in Andover.

- For Andover to have 10-percent affordable housing it would need 1,151 affordable units.

- Currently there are 1,018 affordable units in Andover.

- Therefore, Andover needs 133 more affordable units to meet the state's 10-percent threshold.

- Andover's affordable housing percentage is 8.84 percent.

"If you (communities) don't have that 10 percent in affordable housing, then you are susceptible to appeals," Colyer said.

As a result, new developments offering affordable housing are now plentiful in Andover. The two newest are Ballardvale Crossing, near the commuter rail stop in Ballardvale, and Coachman's Ridge, across from the YMCA on Haverhill Street. Together, they will bring 37 units of affordable housing to town, and they are already included in that 8.84 percent affordable housing percentage.

New developments currently before the zoning board include:

- Casco Crossing on River Road, a 96-rental-unit development

- Greenwood Meadows near the fire station in West Andover, a development of 20 detached single-family homes.

Both will have 25 percent of their units designated "affordable" by state standards.

Meanwhile, two more new developments have been appealed. More than 100 units for an Avalon Bay development on River Road was approved by the zoning board, but neighbors have appealed that decision. Also, a 12-unit condo development on Lowell Street near Wild Rose Drive was rejected by the zoning board, but the developer has appealed the town's decision to the state.

The seventh new development in the works is a 191-rental unit development on Lowell Street, at the vacant Rolling Green Motel site. Plans have been filed, and they show that 25 percent of those apartments will be affordable.

"It's a spurt of comprehensive permits," Colyer said of the new development scene noting that Andover's 10 percent of affordable housing will eventually be met.

The last time new development focused on projects with affordable housing was in 1986 and 1987. That's when three developments were finished in town — Brookside on North Street, Riverview Commons in West Andover and Abbot Pond on Andover Street.

Colyer expects a similar new development scene to transpire after the next round of census data comes out in 2010. That year will see Andover's next barrage of comprehensive permits, he predicts.

Coachman's Ridge on Haverhill Street. Inset, there could be 191 rental units where the Rolling Green now sits.

Abatement applications are at an all time high

By Mel Rinde

The home at 46 Clark Road is supposedly worth $401,300, but owner Bill Pennington scoffs at the figure.

With 7,000 cars racing up and down his street daily in the traffic-clogged Ballardvale section of town, he couldn't sell the house for more than $350,000, he said.

So like a growing number of residents, some of them struggling financially due to the weak economy, Pennington has applied to the town for an abatement, hoping assessors will lower his official home value and cut his tax bill.

"It reaches a point where you say, 'Enough is enough,'" said

Pennington, whose neighbors have won abatements in recent years. "The town doesn't take the traffic into consideration. The value of our house is severely impacted."

The town received 469 abatement applications after property tax bills went out in January, a big jump from about 250 three years ago, Assessor Bruce A. Symmes said.

Both years saw townwide revaluations that pushed up home values. That doesn't necessarily lead to higher tax bills, but this time around the town is also taxing to the legal limit as it pays for the construction of two new schools and other rising expenses.

The assessment for the average single-family home in Andover soared 40 percent last year to $470,000, and the tax bill for the owner of that home jumped $480, or 9.6 percent, to $5,466.

The owner of the average commercial property worth $2.5 million must pay about $41,000, a jump of 5.8 percent. Taxes for the average industrial property increased about 10 percent.

A revaluation can raise some tax bills and lower others, but the big jump in home values caused "sticker shock" for some people, spurring abatement requests, Symmes said.

"I expected applications into the 300s, not the 400s," Symmes said of the abatement requests.

The deadline for applying has passed.

Of the 282 applications the Board of Assessors has reviewed so far, about a third were granted, Symmes said. Applications succeed when a home really would sell for less, perhaps because the values of neighboring houses have risen less quickly or the house has lost an amenity like a pool or a shed, he said.

But for any resident with a tight family budget, especially someone who has lost a job, the promise of a smaller tax bill is an attractive prospect.

"People try to use it as a vehicle for lowering taxes just because they can't pay them," said North Andover Assessor Garrett Boles. "That's not what it's for."

Boles saw 218 abatement requests after the last revaluation in 2001, compared to just 95 the following year, he said. This year North Andover received 69.

"We get applications that say,

'I can't pay this anymore,' and we do give due process and review them," he said. "I feel bad. There are people who are hurting. But they don't understand that the appeal process is about the total valuation of your property."

Haverhill received 57 abatement applications this year, said Mary Marino, that city's tax assessor. After the most recent revaluation in fiscal year 2002, the city received 181 abatement requests.

Applicants who are denied or want bigger abatements have three months to appeal to the state Appellate Tax Board in Boston. Some hire lawyers to argue their case or negotiate a settlement.

In Andover, the town maintains an overlay account out of which it pays abatements. In 2000 the town paid out $302,797 for abatements and for tax exemptions, which benefit the elderly, widows, blind people and veterans, Symmes said.

By the end of February of this year the town had spent $191,311 from the overlay account, and the figure will rise as more abatements are granted.

The town expects to collect $79.6 million in property taxes.

The year following an abatement, the resident or business owner continues paying the revised rate, with any new adjustments if necessary.

The amount they save is passed onto other taxpayers, whose bills rise slightly to make up the difference, Symmes said.

Homes sell for thousands more than assessed value

Real-estate agents say gap between sale price and towns assessments is shrinking

By Andrea Gregory

For those looking to buy or sell property there are two numbers to look at, the listing price, what a seller is hoping to get, and the assessed value, the amount the town says it's worth, a number directly linked to property tax.

While listing prices can fluctuate during their time on the market, new assessed values come out once a year, and as of January everyone in Andover now knows their property's assessment.

But Andover homes still frequently and prominently show a wide gap between their assessed value and their selling price.

Out of the 46 houses sold in Andover between Jan. 1 and March 31 of this year, only three sold within $10,000 of their assessed value. Fifteen homes sold with more than a $100,000 difference from their new assessed value. One home on West Knoll Road was sold for almost $1 million more than its assessment.

"I've never seen a direct correlation in all my years between assessed value and market value," says Joseph B. Doherty Jr. of Prudential, Howe and Doherty.

It's clear assessed values are not an exact match when it comes down to the listing and selling price of a home. Doherty says the assessors have a more scientific approach and their numbers do not dictate what a home will sell for or should be bought for.

"Market value is driven by human beings. Emotions go into buying homes," he says. "That's really who determines the value, the buyer." Doherty says a formula used to assess a property's value differs from a buyer's assessment and because when the buyer sees a house he or she is trying to picture living there. Intangibles play a role.

Doherty says his theory (passed down from his father) when it comes to home assessments is that a third feel undervalued, a third feel right and a third feel over-assessed. "As long as everyone is assessed fairly it really doesn't make a difference," says Doherty.

"It's supposed to reflect 100 percent of the market," says Bruce Symmes, assessor for the town of Andover.

But, asks Doherty, "If it were true who would need real estate people?"

Assessors, while they do follow a formula for a property's worth, realize the human side is what drives the market, and Symmes points out his office's numbers are behind the times. "We're always 18 months out of date," he says.

For Symmes and other assessors it's a continuing game of catch up. According to Symmes, last July, when new assessed values were determined, they were based on sales from the previous year and didn't show up on anyone tax bill until this January, meaning this year's assessed values are based on 2001 sales.

Assessments

Symmes says Andover does yearly adjustments, which will be mandated by the state in 2005. But actual interior home inspections are only done every 10 years. Currently, Andover has begun the process of having inspectors from Patriot Properties reinspect the inside of every home townwide. Symmes says it's a three-year process to cover all of Andover properties, and the process started last summer.

"It's basically the same things that an appraiser would look at if appraising a property," he says.

Symmes says the inspectors are checking homes inside and out, taking into consideration anything that affects value, including house and lot size, wetlands, materials, condition, type of walls and floors, central air, central vacuuming and countertops. He says the three major aspects of a property eyed when assessing its value are its quality, size and condition.

Symmes says overall assessed values in town jumped 35 to 40 percent this year and a number of property owners have disputed the new figure. He says 486 households filed abatements by the February cut-off date to contest the new assessed value. In an average year, Symmes says 200 abatements are likely to be filed (see related story).

"Every year people file," says Symmes. "I would say probably less than half get abatements."

Effect on taxes

Symmes explains tax rates change with assessments so property owners who saw 40-percent increases in their properties' assessed values didn't see a 40-percent increase in their taxes. The gross amount to be raised by the town through taxes is determined at Town Meeting. Selectmen set the tax rate, or how much residents must pay in taxes per $1,000 of property valuation.

"It's really controlled more by Town Meeting than us. All we do is divide it up between the taxpayers," says Symmes.

Market vs. assessment

"Market indicates property value because that's what people are buying property for," says Symmes. "It doesn't mean the sale price is correct."

According to Symmes what it could mean is a future affect on assessed value. He adds one house selling for quite a bit more or less won't necessarily impact a great change, but if more than half the houses on the same street start to do the same it shows a change in market value.

Tom Carroll, of Re/Max real-estate agency, recently sold a house at a price fairly close to its assessed value.

"That kind of caught my eye," Carroll says adding it was a mid-range house. "In the past there has been no way we could go on assessed values."

He says an observation he's come to notice over the years is the market to assessed value seems to be closer in down town as opposed to houses further out like in the Single Residence C district.

Nick Geranios, a real estate agent at Prudential, Howe and Doherty, says the exception would be for a house to sell for less than the assessed value. Buying an Andover home for the cost of its assessed value is an unrealistic goal in most cases. He says he will talk with clients about assessed value for tax purpose, but doesn't believe it's a way to gauge what kind of deal someone's getting on the house.

"It's apples and oranges," Geranios says. "If the market is telling you one thing, the assessed value isn't telling you anything."

But he agrees the gap has gotten smaller between the assessed and sale figures and it's common to be asked why a house is listed at a greater amount than the assessed value.

"Buyers are consciously making a huge purchase," he says, but, "overanalyzing could run you the risk of losing the property."

Andover home buyers

According to Geranios, at his office there are as many first-time home buyers as people moving up in Andover.

"This is a destination community. It's where they want to be long-term," he says. "I think people are looking for a sense of community and you see that just driving in."

People who move here are often willing to pay a premium to do it, he says. When it comes to what Geranios calls entry-level homes for first-time home buyers, he says there is the least discrepancy between assessed value and list prices.

"Sometimes the only thing right about entry-level homes is the price," he says, but availability can drive those up. "When smaller homes are torn down all it does is move more entry-level homes off the market."

"What we're not short of is million-dollar-plus properties," he adds.

Inventory and multiple offers raise and change market value, he says.

"There's always people entering the market every day," Geranios says. "It depends on the people. You never know what motivates people."

Market soft on $2 million homes

By Ben Hellman

If the market for $2 million homes in Andover hasn't dried up, it's slowed to a trickle.

But some homes in that range are still being completed in the hopes that buyers will surface.

Regency Ridge developer Todd Wacome says he's taking a gamble that the market for $2 million homes will bounce back soon. He is building two such homes at Regency Ridge, a posh development off Alderbrook Road, even though he doesn't have a buyer for either. Next door to them, two similarly priced homes that have been sold are under construction.

Describing the scene at Regency Ridge a few weeks ago, as excavators, loaders, dump trucks and concrete mixers all worked on the same section of street, he said, "It seems ironic for me to see this scene and at the same time wonder if we'll find a buyer. It's looking like we're in a boom, but we're not."

Wacome says the market dried up after September 11, 2001. Since then he's sold three $2 million homes. He says he's not alone in having high-end homes without owners. He knows of six unsold homes in the $2 million range in Andover. "Basically, all of us builders are betting on the fact that demand is really pent up," he says.

Still, times are tight. Wacome says he suspended construction on an unsold $2.2 million home. He says the owner of one Regency Ridge home looking to sell it found a buyer who offered $1.85 million, but then backed out.

The market shift has him considering taking a different approach. "I'm wondering if I should cut lots into smaller pieces," he says.

The hands of a master tailor and designer

Enzo of Andover has dedicated himself to making his clientele look good for over fifty years. "Twenty years ago I took my then thirty years experience as a master tailor and designer to a new level and opened a beautiful retail store here in Andover." Said Enzo of his early years.

Enzo came to America a young man of 19 with a dream of becoming a designer. Today Enzo is one of America's 45 remaining master tailors and has carried his art of the custom suit to new heights. "There's nothing better than to see one of my customers walk out of my custom tailor shop looking perfect. I know he feels ready for anything that comes his way." When a man looks good, he feels good. When he feels good his life is better. This is the premise upon which Enzo has built his custom tailored suit and retail men's clothing store. "My goal is to make a man unaware that he is wearing a suit. It should fit like a glove," says Enzo. The traditional customer of Enzo of Andover clothing, is someone who enjoys the finer things in life. When asked about today's more casual lifestyle, Enzo replied, "Our customers find everything they need at my shop. The best brands in sportswear and accessories and we carry shoes that compliment our tailored clothing."

Some $2 million homes have suspended construction due to a soft high-end market. Others keep building in hopes they will sell.

ABOUT THE LISTING

All assessed property information comes directly from the assessor's office. The properties are listed alphabetically by street name. For the sake of space and clarity the Townsmen printed only the person or entity named as "owner 1" in the assessor's record
